Alimony Not a Debt Justice Rules in Ordering John G. McKay Released

Judgment This Afternoon Protects Ex-wife and Sheriff From Damage Actions

John George McKay, the Calgary masseur, who, when he returned to Victoria week ago to visit his son and daughter, was seized by deputy sheriffs on a writ of capias issued by his ex-wife, Hannah McKay of Victoria, and her counsel, F. C. Elliott, was ordered released from jail at 1 o'clock this afternoon, when Mr. Justice Murphy in the Supreme Court handed down judgment granting the application of C. H. O'Halloran for the man's release. Mr. McKay claims unpaid alimony of $7,800 running back to 1924, when Mr. McKay moved from Victoria to Calgary.

Hearing of the case started yesterday morning. The judge in his findings affirmed the submissions of Mr. O'Halloran. Mr. McKay has been held in jail for the last week.

It is clear that if the nature of alimony is such as I hold it to be, then it is of the greatest importance to the person capioed that he should know that the writ is based on an alimony demand. In the case of debt simpliciter if the proceedings are regular, the defendant must either remain in custody or in special bail, but if the claim is based on alimony the authorities discussed in the case here show that he would have the right to apply at any rate to the divorce branch of the court to have the arrears reduced or possibly wiped out if he could establish a proper case.

Simple Remedy For Bad Stomach Gives Swift Relief

No Need of Strong Medicines or Diet. Safe and Simple Remedy Keeps Stomach in Fine Condition

If you are a victim of Stomach Troubles—Gas, Sourness, Pain or Bloating—you may have quick and certain relief by following this simple advice.

Don't take strong medicines, artificial digestants or pull down your system with starvation diets. For within reason most folks may eat what they like if they keep their stomach free from souring acids that hinder or paralyze the work of digestion.

And the best and easiest way to do this is by taking every meal with a teaspoonful of Bismarck's Magnesia—a pleasant, harmless, inexpensive prescription that promptly neutralizes acidity and keeps your stomach sweet and clean.

A week's trial of Bismarck's Magnesia which any good druggist can supply, should quickly convince you that 90 per cent of ordinary stomach distress is absolutely unnecessary. Be sure to get Bismarck's Magnesia. (Adv.)

Four entries also have been made for the large displays of Class 4, the Women's Institute display for the Allen Cup, and three entries are assured, with a possible fourth, in the district display for City of Victoria Challenge Cup. BRIDGE OLYMPIC PROVES POPULAR

1,400 Groups in Forty-five Countries Start Play on Monday

New York, April 25.—Between 20,000 and 25,000 Canadian bridge players, representing clubs from Cape Breton to Vancouver Island, swing into the second annual world bridge Olympic on May 1.

According to announcement to-day by the National Bridge Association at 8:01 p.m. on May 1, 1,400 different groups of contract bridge players in forty-five countries start to play sixteen Olympic bridge hands as nearly as possible to the par set by the Olympic committee. Of the estimated total of 120,000 players, approximately one-fifth will be Canadians.

Ninety different games in Canada will be distributed across the nine provinces. In Winnipeg a newspaper is running one game for the benefit of members of the Winnipeg Trolley basketball team who survived the recent airplane accident in Kansas. Upwards of fifty tables will play in this tournament.

In Sydney, N.S., the Royal Cape Breton Yacht Club is operating a thirty-table game.

In Victoria, Mrs. T. S. Gore reports a large development of interest in the championships, and early estimates of ten tables there have been stepped up to at least thirty-three.

The "Giant Eight" Bridge Club of Regina is silent on the number of players to participate there, and estimates range from sixteen tables to twenty. Toronto will have nine different games, all well attended.

Four silver trophies will be awarded to the best Canadian north-south pair and east-west pair. Four silver cups will be given to the two high pairs in each province. In addition, the Canadians will be competing for one of the two Olympic world's championship trophies—massive columns of olive-green Brazilian onyx, upon which rest a platinum replica of the globe. The trophies are reputed to be worth $10,000 each.

ANTI-REVISION BLOC FORMING

France, Poland and Little Entente Countries Oppose Treaty Changes

Associated Press

Warsaw, April 26.—Poland, France and the Little Entente nations are said to be in close contact, presumably in connection with anti-revision sentiment, but the Foreign Office denied yesterday such an agreement had been signed.

Reports published abroad were that the countries had signed an agreement against revision of World War treaties and opposing Premier Mussolini's four-power peace plan.

Conferences have been conducted between Foreign Minister Joseph Beck of Poland and the Czech and French Ambassadors.

Prague, Czechoslovakia, April 26.—Foreign Minister Edouard Benes told Parliament yesterday that whoever desired to change the boundaries of Czechoslovakia would have to bring an army along with him.

M. Benes assailed attempts to revise the war treaties and criticized Premier Mussolini's four-power peace plan as "a great backward step."

"History shows," he said, "that the surrender of territory always is connected with the bloodiest wars."

CHINESE THRONE TALK DIES DOWN

Associated Press

Changchun, Manchuria, April 26.—Any immediate prospect of Japan restoring Henry Pu-yi, regent of the new state of Manchukuo, to the Chinese throne appears to have been relegated to the background by the Manchukuoan cabinet.

Advisers were received here yesterday that Japanese counsellors of the new state had appointed a commission of twenty-two to examine the United States and other liberal constitutions with a view to evolving a democratic fundamental law for Manchuria. The new law would replace the present vaguely defined provisional constitution, and Pu-yi would be installed as the chief executive.

The committee is expected to seek methods of enfranchising Manchukuo's 34,000,000 inhabitants and of creating a modern judicial system.

Henry Pu-yi, former "Boy Emperor" of China, is the "Chin-chang" of Manchukuo. The title can be translated variously and he has, consequently, been called "dictator," "regent," "president" and "chief executive" of the state.

PROTEIN CONTENT OF DIET IS AN IMPORTANT FACTOR

Cheese, Eggs, Fish, Meat and Milk Are Held Best Foods For Repairing Bodily Wear and Tear; Pint of Milk Daily is Recommended.

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN

Associated with widespread unemployment is the possibility of under-nutrition due to two causes: first, lack of funds sufficient to purchase food, and second, wrong choice of food in relationship to a restricted budget.

Any diet must be judged by four main factors: The number of calories, which is a measure of its energy value; the amount of good protein necessary for repair and growth; the amount of mineral matter, and the vitamins. It is now generally recognized that the average adult man requires about 3,000 calories per day. The woman about 2,500, and the average child, from three years on, from 1,500 to 3,000, depending on its weight and its activities. As we grow older the amount necessary for energy is less, so that a person over sixty-five years of age needs 2,250 calories per day.

The measurement of the number of calories provided by a diet is relatively simple when it is understood that each gram of protein yields about

Increase In Wool Duty Opposed In Commons Debate

Liberals Say Raising of Import Levy on Knitted Garments Will Boost Price to Consumers; Item Let Stand for Further Consideration

Ottawa, April 26.—Increase of the intermediate or treaty tariff from 25 per cent to 35 per cent on imports of knitted garments came under heavy fire in the Commons yesterday evening when that tariff schedule of the Rhodes budget was being reviewed in committee of the whole. Liberals criticized the increase as being of little value to the woolen industry of Canada while at the same time raising prices to the consumers.

"Absolutely outrageous," was the characterization of Hon. Charles Stewart, Liberal, Edmonton, West, former Minister of the Interior. He predicted the manufacturers in Canada would immediately take advantage of the increase to raise their prices. Nor was he satisfied with the finance Minister's assurance that if this were done, the increase would be suspended.

Mr. Rhodes, Minister of Finance, said the production of Canadian manufacturers totaled $48,000,000 annually. In the "red," he stated, and all had asked this increase be made. He cited figures to show that of $1,500,000 of imports into Canada, $800,000 had come from the United Kingdom, which would not be affected by the increase, and $700,000 from foreign countries.

Mr. Rhodes said the manufacturers of Canada were being "slaughtered competitively" from abroad, a statement which evoked from John Vallance, Liberal, South Battleford, Sask., the assertion that the products of the farm were even now being sold at "slaughter prices." Why, he asked, should the farmers be compelled to sell their products at such prices and be denied the opportunity of purchasing materials they needed at low costs?

The item was finally let stand when Mr. Rhodes expressed his willingness to hold it back for further consideration.

DEUTEROPHONES
A charge that changes in tariff rates had been brought about for the benefit of manufacturers and not to help the general public was made during yesterday evening's debate when the House considered, and finally passed, the imposition of a 10 per cent tariff under the British preference on telephone apparatus.

Dr. J. D. Donnelly, Liberal, William Bunch, Sask., declared charged a majority of the tariff changes in the budget had been brought about at the manufacturers' request. He said that of a list of twenty-six items, reductions had been brought about in twenty by applications of individuals and only six at the request of manufacturers.

FARM IMPLEMENTS
The budget proposal to make permanent the present tariff rates on complete parts for repairs to farm implements or machinery raised a stir.

The provision "under regulations prescribed by the minister" drew attention of J. L. Brown, Liberal, Ligar, Man. The question of tariff rates on these implements had been before the Commons last year and this session, and Mr. Brown said he would like to have the assurance that the regulations which might be prescribed would not be of the kind passed on May 25 last.

Those regulations had made a distinction between repair parts imported by the makers of implements and those imported by other persons, notably companies. Mr. Brown said he had undertaken to import parts from the United States from those concerns that would make parts for all implements. The May regulation had resulted in an increase in the price of parts, and some Saskatchewan dealers had failed to provide themselves with repair parts and farmers had been put to great inconvenience. It was an inequitable regulation, declared Mr. Brown, which had distinguished between two classes of dealers.

Hon. E. N. Rhodes replied that the time for the application of the tariff item had been extended on two different occasions, and if the present item had not been included in the budget it would have prevailed after March of this year.

DESCRIBED AS OBJECTIONABLE
"It was little short of a crime to shoot up the tariff on repair parts the way it was done last year," declared W. B. Motherwell, Liberal, Melville, Sask., former Minister of Agriculture. He had not much faith in regulations by the government; and if there was any more of the kind of money-making that had occurred in May "there will be a row all over Canada."

Mr. Brown had treated matters regardless of the facts, returned Hon. E. B. Byckman, Minister of National Revenue. There was no regulation passed last year "that had a different application to one than it had to another."

Several members participated in brief exchanges before the item finally passed.

POLICE HUNT FOR WOMAN JUROR

St. Paul, Minn., April 26.—Search for Mrs. Genevieve Clark, missing for trial juror sentenced to six months in jail for contempt of court, spread to-day over the northwest and to the Canadian border with definite clues as to her whereabouts still lacking.

Bernard Anderson, United States Marshal, who has a warrant for Mrs. Clark's arrest, said federal and state agencies had been enlisted in the search.

Immigration authorities at the Minnesota-Canadian border were given a description of the missing woman and the license number of the Clark automobile, Minn., B123-905, issued in 1932.

Mrs. Clark was to have started serving her term Monday afternoon and had been released on her own recognizance.

PLAN WORK AT FAIR WAGES

Objective of Liberal Party, Dr. Sutherland Tells Revelstoke Audience

Four in Running for Nomination in New Revelstoke-Columbia Riding

Canadian Press
Revelstoke, B.C., April 26.—Speaking to a capacity audience here yesterday evening, Dr. W. H. Sutherland, M.P.P. for Revelstoke and former Minister of Public Works, declared the Liberal Party, when returned to power at the approaching election, would create work at fair wages, look after settlers, do away with road camps, leave road machinery in the barn and give road employment in the summer which would enable workers and farmers to live through the winter without government assistance.

"The relief camps were unnecessary and if I ever have the honor to dominate the Department of Public Works again they will last about ten minutes," he said.

He referred to the policies enunciated at the Liberal convention last year and particularly stressed the importance of using the national credit to restore normal conditions.

"If we could inflate to win the war, why not inflate to win the war on poverty?" he asked.

Thomas King, M.P.P. for Columbia, referred to the fact that the government had for alleged reasons of economy taken steps to abolish his seat as soon as he was elected at a by-election two years ago. A net reduction of one seat had followed the government's policy of reducing the number of ridings. In his particular riding the government had spent more on the by-election than would be saved by amalgamating Revelstoke and Columbia. Mr. King stated his hat was in the ring for the Liberal nomination as candidate in the new constituency. Dr. Sutherland is also in the running for the nomination, with Alderman Joseph Hammond and K. G. MacRae, president of the Revelstoke Liberal Association also mentioned.

RADIO AFFAIRS AIRE BY M.P.'S DURING DEBATE

Liberals Criticize Commission's Purchase of C.N.R. Stations; Charlesworth Accused of "Indiscreet Verbiage"

Ottawa, April 26.—A resolution to approve purchase of the radio broadcasting stations of the Canadian National Railways by the Radio Commission provoked a storm in the Commons yesterday afternoon. Hon. James Macdonald, Liberal, North Bruce, Ont., former Minister of Trade and Commerce, charged the price of $50,000 was too low and unfair to the Canadian National. Hon. R. J. Manion, Minister of Railways and Canals, said the railway system had decided to go out of the broadcasting business as it was costing it money every year.

The stations are at Vancouver, Ottawa and Moncton, B.C., with studios at Halifax and Montreal.

RAILWAYS COMPARED
Liberals members led general onslaught against the resolution, although the latter passed it without division. They said it would place the Canadian Pacific Railway in an advantageous position over the Canadian National to have the latter road's plant handed over to the national commission.

On the other hand, Hon. R. J. Manion, Minister of Railways, said the C.N.R. was glad to get rid of the plant, it having cost $441,000 to operate in 1929. He considered it a good buy and a good sale.

The sale would mean a reduction of about $85,000 per year in Canadian National expenses. One of the biggest blunders the Canadian National had made was to install receiving sets on trains, added Dr. Manion.

The deal had been arranged entirely between the Radio Commission and the railway, said Dr. Manion, and the government had nothing to do with it. The cost would be levied against the fund created out of the license fees paid by radio listeners.

Liberals protested chiefly against the price paid to the railway—the stations cost $132,000 in the first place—and demanded some pronouncement on the government's future policy in absorbing stations into the national chain.

Sir George Perley, Acting Prime Minister, said no policy had been laid down. The radio commission last year had valued the C.N.R. stations at $70,000, Sir George said, and taking further depreciation into account, the negotiating officials were agreed $50,000 was a fair valuation at present.

MORTGAGES OUTSTANDING

Number Held by Canadian Insurance Companies Trebled Since 1921

Ottawa, April 26.—Total mortgages held by Canadian insurance companies in this country and outstanding in 1931 amounted to $437,300,000, Dr. R. H. Coats, Dominion statistician, told the Commons banking committee yesterday. Of that amount, $30,700,000 was in arrears of principal one year or more, while $25,000,000 was "written off" that year.

Since 1921 the total of insurance company mortgages had trebled; the amount of principal in arrears had increased from six to seven per cent of the whole, while the total "written off" was five times greater.

Analyzing the three western provinces, Dr. Coats showed in Saskatchewan the farm mortgages outstanding had risen from $36,700,000 to $43,000,000 in the ten years under review, but the amount of principal in arrears one year or more had increased from $3,500,000 to $20,000,000, or from nine per cent to 46.1 per cent.

In Manitoba, farm mortgages between 1921 and 1931 had declined from $11,600,000 to $10,800,000, but the amount of principal in arrears had increased from 9.5 per cent to 42.6 per cent.

Alberta showed an increase in farm mortgages held by insurance companies from $17,600,000 in 1921 to $21,500,000 in 1931. The increase in unpaid principal was from 13.1 per cent to 22.3 per cent.

STATEMENT BY CHARLESWORTH
Toronto, April 26.—"We'll be all right if politicians will only leave us alone," declared Charlesworth, chairman of the Canadian Radio Commission, told an interviewer yesterday while visiting this city.

Asked about complaints in some quarters respecting the commission's activities, Mr. Charlesworth said: "We can't afford to be guided by Toronto and Montreal opinion alone."

The commission, he declared, had done good work for the great areas of the west and for the Maritime Provinces. "If we were to do only what Toronto and Montreal wanted," he added, "the rest of the country would be after the commission's scalp."

MUSCLE SHOALS BILL IS VOTED

U.S. House Approves Roosevelt's Development Scheme and Sends It to Senate

Washington, April 26.—The Roosevelt programme for building a vast development of the Tennessee Valley around the government's Muscle Shoals properties is now before the Senate, having been passed yesterday by the House of Representatives.

The final ballot in the House ended several days of debate during which amendments were barred.

Chief provisions of the bill are: Creates the Tennessee Valley authority, a government corporation with three directors, to operate the Muscle Shoals investment in the interest of national defence, agriculture and industrial development, navigation and flood control.

Authorizes it to build dams on the Tennessee River as a "reasonable market demand" develops for power that would amortize the costs within sixty years.

Directs the corporation to lease or operate the nitrate plants, requiring a minimum output of 10,000 tons of fixed nitrogen the first two years.

Authorizes the corporation to sell surplus power, giving preference to states, counties and municipalities. Also empowers it to build transmission lines if leasing, purchasing or condemnation is not feasible.

Authorizes a $50,000,000 bond issue and a $10,000,000 appropriation.

NEW UNITED STATES SOLICITOR-GENERAL

James C. Biggs, above, has been named by President Roosevelt for the post of Solicitor-General of the United States. The appointment came as a surprise to Washington. Mr. Biggs has practiced law in Raleigh, N.C., since 1911, and at one time was a member of the North Carolina Superior Court.

INQUIRY COSTS
Ottawa, April 26 (Canadian Press).—No remuneration will be accepted by members of the Royal Commission which inquired into the railway situation of Canada, apart from actual out-of-pocket expenses. This was announced yesterday.

PREMIER TOLMIE AND THE PROVINCIAL ASSOCIATION

In the final analysis it is Premier Tolmie, not the provincial Conservative Association, who will, or should, decide whether the Conservative party will participate in the next provincial election or not. He is the leader of that party and, what is even more important and conclusive, he is the leader of the government who alone has the power within the constitution to determine when and how the election shall take place. Neither the provincial Conservative Association nor any other political association exists in a constitutional sense. Moreover, its membership comprises only an infinitesimal proportion of the electorate.

In these circumstances the provincial Conservative Association was presumptuous, to put it mildly, in arrogating to itself the power to decide whether the Conservative party officially and authoritatively should take part in the election. It was more than presumptuous in presenting to the Premier an ultimatum requiring him to submit to it a statement of his intentions and policy within fifteen days.

The Premier's mistake lay in submitting to the exactions of the association. He should have consigned it to a warmer place than Victoria or Vancouver, and addressed whatever party announcement he had to make, if indeed he felt it desirable to make any at all, to the Conservatives of the province, of whom he, not the provincial association, is the leader. If there was any repudiating to be done, he, not the association, should have done it, and he would have lost nothing in either the party or public estimation if he had done it. No doubt his reason for not doing so was that he had enough trouble on his hands without involving himself in a conflict with his organization.

The Times is opposed to the Tolmie administration on policy, principle and record, but as between the Premier and the provincial association it admits he has infinitely the better case. The association's record has been thoroughly contemptible. It got rid of Mr. Bowser in 1926 because he failed to win the provincial election two years earlier, and went down on its knees to Dr. Tolmie to take the party leadership, which he was induced to do against his own inclination. Now that the prospects of defeat under the same leadership it welcomed enthusiastically seven years ago are apparent in every direction, it repudiates Dr. Tolmie by a very specious manoeuvre with the purpose of diverting Conservative support to Mr. Bowser who, notwithstanding his unionist pretensions, hopes to wind up as the party leader in all the essentials and implications of that office, leaving Dr. Tolmie in isolation.

What would have been the association's position if the government had any chance of re-election? It would have been on the front seat of the band-wagon, lauding the Premier to the skies and sycophantically wriggling its way to the patronage trough. It would be interesting to know just what Mr. Bowser in his heart of hearts thinks of the provincial organization of the party which is now clinging to the rear end of his political car, and which kicked him out of its own car in 1926.

Neither the Tolmie government nor the Bowser movement has the slightest chance of success at the polls, but by this time the Premier has discovered a few things about Toryism that he never had dreamed of in his political philosophy before.

AN ILLITERATE PEOPLE SEE THE LIGHT OF KNOWLEDGE

Some idea of the manner in which the people of Soviet Russia are being transformed from illiteracy to enlightenment is contained in an article which Lord Passfield has contributed to The Bookman of London in which he describes the vast and varied output of the state publishing house at Moscow. He explains that in 1932 the sales from this establishment comprised more than six hundred million copies of nearly 40,000 newly published books and pamphlets—absorbing nearly three thousand million sheets of print, each sheet being sixteen pages of about 8,000 English words—in Russia proper alone. This is a greater number of separate titles than are published annually in Great Britain and Germany put together.

Lord Passfield goes on to explain, moreover, that when the publishing houses in other constituent republics of the Soviet Union are reckoned in, there are now published in the U.S.S.R. annually about 50,000 new books and pamphlets in about nine million copies, together with nearly 6,000 separate newspapers, magazines and reviews, with an aggregate circulation, daily, weekly, or monthly, that approaches forty million copies. "This seems at least equal to the total output of all the publishers for the much larger combined population of Great Britain, the United States and Germany," Lord Passfield observes; "and this in a nation which only twenty years ago had about half its adult population actually illiterate." He then goes on:

In the current year (1933) it is estimated that nearly eight times as many copies of books and pamphlets will be distributed as in the year before the revolution, being half a dozen for each man, woman and child between the Baltic and the Pacific. Of periodical publications such as newspapers—there are fifty-seven separate dailies—magazines and reviews, the total average circulation throughout the year 1928 had, in fifteen years, nearly trebled. By 1933 it has again trebled, being now more than nine times the total for 1913, and amounting approximately to one of each issue for every household in the whole of the U.S.S.R. And the business is a profitable one for the government treasury. In size and formation the nature of this output comprises every grade, from a two-page leaflet of a speech by "Comrade Stalin" up to a translation, in eight large volumes, published in 1931, for the centenary of his birth, of all the works of Charles Darwin.

Although a large proportion of the immense output which Lord Passfield describes is made up of cheap plain pamphlets of no particular elegance, there are also big and expensive folio volumes composed of excellent reproductions in color of the best pictures in the public galleries of the Soviet Union. Besides work by native authors, there are also a large number of translations, principally into Russian and Ukrainian, from German, English, French, Italian, Spanish, Swedish and Czech. These, Lord Passfield says, are largely of scientific and technological works, but also including fiction and the drama, history and poetry.

TWO MILLION DOLLARS WASTED ON ROAD MACHINERY

In a speech at Revelstoke last night, Dr. W. H. Sutherland, member of the Legislature for that riding and former provincial Minister of Public Works, declared that when elected to office after the next election the Liberal party would do away with road maps, leave road machinery in the barns and give road employment in the summer which would enable workers and farmers to live through the winter without direct government relief.

There will be more than one reference in the election campaign to the road machinery which the present government purchased at a cost to the taxpayers of some $2,000,000. Much of this costly equipment has had to be disposed of for a song and some of it is deteriorating into junk. There was no earthly need for this extravagant outlay; but it was part of nearly five years of spendthrift zeal for which the province is paying.

First under the administration of Dr. King and afterwards under that of Dr. Sutherland, British Columbia road construction and maintenance was every bit as efficient, without the use of this costly machinery, as the work carried out by the present government. Dr. Sutherland's proposal to leave what is left of the equipment in the barns and give employment on the roads to those who are in need of it will commend itself to the workers and taxpayers generally.

CANADA NOT THE PLACE FOR FASCISM OR NAZI-ISM

A gentleman in Vancouver has conceived the idea that Canada needs a political party based on the principles of Italian Fascism and the German Nazi movement. We are not told what color of shirt will distinguish them from the Liberals, Conservatives, Progressives, or Co-operative Commonwealth Federationites. But the headquarters of the organization is situated on Richards Street in Vancouver. The guiding spirit of the new clan is a Mr. Dai Thomas.

A columnist in a Vancouver daily became interested in the statement that people were enrolling by hundreds in the Canadian Fascist movement, so he betook himself to Richards Street and discovered that the whole ground floor of the North-west Building was devoted to the use of the organization. Letters two feet high in bright blue—probably the shirt of membership will be blue—telling the world that this was the "H.Q." of the Canadian Fascists. Then he says:

But observe the awful context. The place was apparently uninhabited, the windows rather grimy; there were no eager hundreds either going in or coming out. As a national headquarters for a great movement it was a splendid example of masterly inactivity.

There is nothing to prevent any self-appointed leader starting a movement as long as its activities do not conflict with law and order. But Canada does not require to import Continental European ideas of government. The Dominion's affairs may not be in as good order as most taxpayers would like; but the solution of our problems is not likely to be made easier by the antics of brown-shirt, black-shirt, or blue-shirt imitators of Mussolini and Hitler, any more than they would be simplified by the adoption of the Moscow system of government.

WHAT OTHER PAPERS SAY

ABOLISHING INTEREST ON SAVINGS
 Steele in The Christian Science Monitor

British bankers consider the wisdom of abolishing interest on deposits. It is reported that London's five largest banks may soon announce acceptance of depositors' money for safe-keeping. The present rate is only one-half of 1 per cent, but with London deposits approximating £100,000,000, interest charges have become a heavy item. The difficulty lies in the scarcity of profitable investments and the abundance of money. The successful banker is something of a slave-driver. He needs sound tasks at which to keep funds working day and night.

HAMILTON'S UNEMPLOYED
 The Hamilton Spectator

There may be lazy rotters among the unemployed who won't work themselves and for the sake of having company will do what they can to persuade others not to work as long as they are supported, clothed and generally kept going by the taxpayers who are fortunate enough to have jobs, but we doubt very much whether there are many of them among the unemployed of this city. Hamilton should be proud to-day of the fact that the welfare board is swamped by the applications of 3,000 of the city's unemployed, who, not content with receiving something for nothing, want to help themselves and thus ease the burden of taxation upon their fellow-citizens by raising vegetables on vacant lands throughout the city. The demand for garden plots is far greater than the welfare board gardening committee can satisfy.

A THOUGHT

But I would have you know, that the head of every man is Christ; and the head of the woman is the man; and the head of Christ is God.—I Corinthians xi 3.

We waste the power in impotence which, if otherwise employed, might remedy the evil.—Wilmot.

Loose Ends

Mr. Mussolini misjudges the human spirit—the art of politics is found to be rather artificial—a strange growth appears out this way—and I move on to the interior.

By H.B.W.

QUITE WRONG

THE ART of politics," says Mr. Mussolini, "is the highest calling in which the human spirit may indulge." Even though Mr. Mussolini is remarkably popular in this country, even though he could easily be elected premier of Canada, judging by public clamor for a man of his type, still, it is hard for us at the capital, after riding in rather better cars, it is the highest calling in which the human spirit may indulge. I suppose there is a height and a grandeur to it which we do not suspect when we are accustomed to see our statesmen walking our streets like ordinary mortals or riding in rather better cars. It is hard for us to appreciate the truth of Mr. Mussolini's pronouncement, because it is utterly untrue.

Politics is not the highest function of men. A good argument could be advanced to prove that, philosophically speaking and not in any disparaging sense, it is the lowest. It is the lowest of all the things which politicians only increase their troubles and bring about their own ruin when they attempt, like Mr. Mussolini, to argue that it is one of the highest—they make the public expect far too much and then blame politicians for everything when they are disappointed. The real fact which politicians should openly admit and electors should understand, is that politics is not the mainspring of public action. It is not the mother of great ideas. It is not the cradle of reform. It is not the directing force of nations and has very little effect on the larger movements of history.

NOTHING NEW

EVERY POLICY adopted by a political party and put through a parliament with cheers and shouting, as if it were a new discovery, is in fact a policy which has been tried in the minds of thinkers outside politics long ago. All the blind gropings of governments the world over to get out of the present mess are based on the proposals of thinkers who are never heard of. Every one of the great reforms which President Roosevelt was able to run through Congress in a fortnight had been proposed by economists and students early in the depression.

Politics merely grasp ideas of other men, who have time to think, gradually, by painful movements, whips them into concrete shape (often wrecking them beyond repair in the process), write them into the form of party platforms, insert them in the statutes and then hail as a new dispensation of divine wisdom a proposal which unknown men have been advocating for years. Usually by the time politics has accomplished this result, it is too late.

Conditions have changed and new solutions are needed which politics will adopt after they are out of date. For politics, you see, is only the mirror and sounding board of popular notions. Occasionally it goes a little ahead of the public (in which case the government is usually defeated), but generally it follows close or far behind. The jumping distance in the field of ideas comes from men who are usually considered crazy in their time and seldom acknowledged when their notions turn out correct. Even Mr. Mussolini and Mr. Stalin, politicians, who have to pay no attention to the public, inherited all their notions from elsewhere. A thousand writers, ancient and modern have laid the foundation for Fascism. Marx laid the foundation for Bolshevism.

Politics deals with the great inarticulate stuff of humanity. It is inevitably mediocre because as a whole we are pretty dumb. Remember that when you are inclined to condemn our current politicians who, on the whole, are a little more intelligent than we are. Don't expect too much. For the highest flights of human spirit, contrary to Mr. Mussolini, look elsewhere. Most likely your spirit flies every day as you work in your garden or eat your dinner, to attitudes which politics cannot even imagine.

STRANGE FLORA

A CURIOUS fungus growth has appeared out here to mar the landscape and cause me continual annoyance, a hideous bungalow growth of absurd houses and forts. Since Fort Rock Pile, on the other side of the hill, fell to the barbarians, as faithfully recorded already in this column, a veritable rash of new structures has swept across the countryside. They seem to spring up overnight, apparently without effort of any sort, though obviously the little girl from next door, her brother and other eminent architects must have spent arduous hours in planning and erecting them.

I looked up from my back-breaking job of weeding yesterday to take a fleeting glance at the Olympics between the oak trees and, to my horror, the view was blocked by a monstrous structure in the most modern manner, constructed of two old fence posts, my rain coat (I wondered where it had gone) a coal oil can and the garden roller. Up in the big fir tree these strange birds have built a vast nest of old boards, apple boxes, and sacks. Around my best oak tree is a parasite growth of cardboard, tin cans and a discarded door mat. Some other hideous development seems to be under way behind the rose bed.

On all sides the urgent, irrepressible human instinct for building things is manifest. In the coming of spring yet there are people who imagine that the human race has been stopped by the depression, that it isn't going to build again.

It is all very gratifying, this insistent demand of the young for progress, this desire for creation which will not be stilled. With no more absurdity than grown-ups who build huge factories without customers and sky scrapers without occupants, my young friends next door will satisfy their creative instinct in the most inconvenient fashion. I mean, it is hard to see the deep philosophy and the historic significance behind a structure which introduces six feet of rusty stove pipe, and old dish pan and two automobile tires into my personal border, not to mention my best hose and a shovel I am specially fond of.

THIS is by way of au revoir for a little while. I am going, as usual, to the interior. But do not be alarmed, you will not lose me altogether. I am going to send down from the interior some dull columns on what I find there. I am going to try the experiment of writing a column every day as I journey through the interior. This ought to make a very pleasant holiday—for Kalamalka Lake, for instance, I am just going up there to look at conditions. That is the official excuse, that is what the editors of this paper innocently imagine. Of course, I am really going up to observe phenomena which do not interest editors and will hardly appear to you. I am going to see the wonder of the Okanagan orchards turning green (though I fear I shall be rather too early), I am going to get a breath of clear air from the Dry Belt, the smell of those red-barked pines which are more fragrant than any perfume, a glimpse of the pure blue of Kalamalka Lake, best of all, a meal at Wing's. Nobody will be interested in these things so I fear you are in for a very dull time.

SWEETSTAKES

To the Editor:—It is certainly a strange procedure for you to put forth such utter condemnation of sweetstake, where a dollar bill, or twenty-five or fifty cents, is at stake, and being at stake is at the same moment, a potential asset to provincial and community hospitals; at least a forty per cent part is potentially assets. In the same paper, a page or so beyond, we read of speculators taking their profit in a boiling market—but not a penny of profit goes to hospitals or charities. This is strange. The scales of justice and freedom and justice do not balance because of the fanaticism of the few, and I number Mr. Editor amongst the few, unless he can prove to me beyond question that the element of chance in either case—market or sweetstake—is different and not the same. And yet would Mr. Editor dare say to the people of Canada, U.S.A. etc., "You ought not to gamble your money in this way. It is not right, and I shall begin a campaign to prohibit you from so doing."

Remember, there are fifty people who buy sweetstake tickets to one who does not. (If the fifty people have the money.)

FRANK L. GODFREY,
 Sidney, B.C., April 25.

Editors note:—The House of Commons rejected the bill to legalize sweetstake for hospitals by an overwhelming majority. The Times approves the rejection because it is convinced that in the long run hospitals would lose more than they would gain from this source. On the general principle it agrees with the writer of the communication above, that sweetstake lotteries are no worse than gambling on the stock market—in fact the record of the last ten years has shown that they are much less harmful.

GUIDANCE

To the Editor:—I have never before joined in any newspaper controversy, but I feel very strongly on this matter of guidance. I am deeply interested in the Oxford Group movement, and I cannot see why "enjoying the fellowship" should, here in Victoria, be restricted to those who have money. It is not so in England. But here, groups of the poor "Oxford Group mother" can attend. Perhaps this secrecy adds spice and flavor to the movement, but it is very disappointing to those who have no money to join in the fellowship. I am not referring to any particular person or group, but just to a well-known fact, which many of us "little-known people" have discussed and deplored. Can't the "leaders" do anything for us? Of course, the fel-

MANY PLAYS IN FESTIVAL

Well-known Local Clubs Will Be Seen at Crystal Garden
All Next Week

There has been such a large number of entries in the Drama Festival, which will be held in the Crystal Garden auditorium all next week, that the committee has found it necessary to give one matinee for adults and one for the juveniles. Wednesday has been reserved for the grown-ups and Saturday for the younger people. There is an inclusive price for the week, with the exception of Saturday, which will be extra. Saturday evening the final adjudication will be made.

The handsome challenge cup presented by The Victoria Times for the provincial championship has created great interest. Tickets are now available at Fletcher Brothers' Music Store on Douglas Street, at Terry's Drug Store or from Brian Murphy at G 7534.

Following is the list of the clubs already entered for the festival.
Victoria Little Theatre Association.

North Saanich Little Theatre Association, Vancouver Little Theatre Association, Icarus Dramatic Guild, Fairfield Players, New Thought Temple Dramatic Club, Home Drama Club, Forbes-
Robertson Players, Beaux Arts, Porch House Players, Dwarf Theatre, Shepherd-Dow Club, Theatres Club, Seton College, Tried Players, Bequinal, Elementary School, Fox Players and Victoria School of Expression.

Floradora Girl Back With Title

New York, April 21.—Society is welcoming Lord and Lady Ashburton to New York again. But no swank reception could thrill the British peers like the ovations she used to receive when she was a New York girl named Frances Belmont—and a member of the original Floradora Sextette.

COURTENAY NOTES

Courtenay, April 26.—St. George's Day and Shakespeare's birthday were observed Monday by the St. George's Society here. The dinner, catered for by the members of St. John's Anglican Young People's Association, included traditional English dishes.

The programme was excellent, including a scene from Shakespeare's "Winter's Tale" put on by the Anglican Young People's Association. Ben Hughes was chairman. The toast to Canada was responded to by W. G.
Kelly, Cumberland, that to the Empire
by Rev. G. L. Bourdillon. Courtenay to England, Ven. Archdeacon Laycock,
Victoria; to Shakespeare, G. Williams
Stubbs, Courtenay, and to the ladies, Mrs. F. W. Tull. The musical items included the song cycle of Cavalcade, violin duet with piano, Frank Harford, Douglas Inglis, Miss Alice Hurford, soprano, "Cargoes," V. G. Bayly and
"Glorious Devon," A. W. Palmer. Mrs.
Tribe was the accompanist.

Urge Support of Home Industries

Premier Tolmie and Others
Preach "Buy Victorian"
Campaign at Fair

Survey of Exhibits at Armories Shows Local Products Merit Support

Citizens of Victoria were urged to buy locally-made goods in speeches
by Premier Tolmie, acting mayor
James Adam, and Major W. C.
Angus, chairman of the general committee in charge of the Home Products Fair, at the exhibition's opening ceremonies in the Armories yesterday.

By keeping the dollar at home, speakers said, greater prosperity could be achieved. Through exhibitions such as the Home Products Fair, manufacturers of Victoria gave consumers a chance to see the value of local products, the Premier stated in opening his address.

Never before had people realized the value of products as they did to-day, he continued. It was insane to buy outside products when quality goods could be purchased as economically from Victoria firms.

Proceeding the Premier sketched
the status of manufacturing in British Columbia during 1930, when 1,700 companies, employing 43,000 persons, produced goods valued at $240,000,000 and furnished payrolls amounting to $55, 000,000.

To better employment conditions, he said, Victorians would have to promote local industry by purchasing home products.

LOCAL SUPPLY AVAILABLE
The speaker referred to the tremendous amount of imported goods bought by citizens each year. Giving a survey of the wealth of the province, he showed how much of it could be supplied locally.

There were great prospects before British Columbia, but in order to realize them, the domestic market would have to be improved, he continued.
To assist in promoting home industries, the government institutions made a practice of purchasing British Columbia products as far as possible.

The Premier said, adding such products had compared favorably in price and quality with goods received from outside sources.

Closing he urged publicity for products of the city and province, and stated the best manner in which consumers here could determine which were home products lay in visiting the Home Products Fair.

LAUDS COMMITTEES
Acting Mayor Adam complimented the Chamber of Commerce for fostering the show, paying particular tribute to the work of George I. Warren, Harold Palmer and P. E. George, energetic workers.

Now was the time to patronize home industry, he said. A survey of the displays in the show indicated they were quite worthy of encouragement. He hoped to see all Victorians visit the show during the week, he concluded.

Major Angus, before introducing Premier Tolmie and the acting mayor, urged citizens to keep their dollars at home by patronizing local manufacturers. The remedy lay in at least some of the depression lay in the citizens own hands, he said.

nary, the Bapeo bowling team engaged to the local bowlers. The presentation of cups, etc., took place just before

EMBARGOES HALT TRADE

British and Soviet Regulations in Full Force To-day; Great Sums Involved

Canadian Press and Associated Press
London, April 26.—Great Britain and Soviet Russia were at grips to-day in a severe trade war which at present is slated to continue at least as long as two British subjects are held in jail in Moscow.

Cost to the two countries in goods alone probably would total about $100,000,000 in a year, that being the approximate value of trade now at a standstill because of the embargoes.

Great Britain's eighty-per-cent ban on Russian imports went into effect yesterday evening, and simultaneously Russia retaliated with a complete embargo on imports from Britain and other drastic restrictions on British shipping and commerce.

Great Britain proclaimed its embargo last Wednesday when a Soviet Supreme Court imposed three and two-year sentences, respectively, on L. C. Thornton and William L. MacDonald, British engineers who were convicted of sabotage and espionage against the Soviet Union.

Goods chiefly affected by the British embargo are butter, poultry, cereals, oil and timber from the Soviet Union.

SHIPS BARRED
Russian restrictions apparently are much more severe than those imposed here. Not only are purchases of any kind in Great Britain prohibited, but chartering of British merchant ships by Russian companies is banned and restrictions are imposed on use of British ports by Russian ships and transportation of British goods through Russia to the Far East. Higher duties also are imposed on British ships entering Soviet ports.

Expenditures Cut From Last Fiscal Year, Canadian Chamber of Commerce Reports

Montreal, April 26.—Provincial government expenditures will be $27,742,701 less in 1933-34 than last year, according to an announcement by the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, which has conducted a Dominion-wide survey. All the provinces but Prince Edward Island and Nova Scotia have cut their total fiscal commitments.

By provinces, the budget cuts and increases reported by the chamber include:
"British Columbia—Estimated government expenditures reduced $1,964,078 for 1933-34 in the departments of Agriculture, Attorney-General, Education, Lands and Provincial Secretary.
"Alberta—Controllable expenditures cut 17 1/2 per cent for 1933-34.
"Saskatchewan—Expenditures cut $2,146,623 by general writing down of all departments, with heaviest shown in educational grants, provincial telephones, public welfare and charities, highways and other public works.
"Manitoba—Controllable expenditure cut $650,000 as follows: Road maintenance, university grant, vocational training, legislative members' indemnities, agricultural fairs, school for the deaf, miscellaneous and old age pensions. Strong agitation may secure further cut in expenditures.
"Ontario—Expenditures cut $14,000,000 and will cut down costs further by reducing members from 113 to 99 and cabinet by two or three members, and proposed amalgamation of departments."

RANSOM CASH IS RECOVERED

Part of Money Paid Boettcher Denver Abductors Found at South Dakota Ranch

Salt Lake City, Utah, April 26.—Announcement that $30,360 of the $60,000 ransom money paid for the release of Charles Boettcher, wealthy young Denver broker, had been recovered at the Sanky ranch at Gimball, S.D., was made to-day by John A. Dowd, agent of the federal investigation bureau here.

Verne Sanky and Gordon Elkhorn, both former railway workers of Melville, Saskatchewan, have been sought for weeks as members of the suspected abduction band. Sanky's wife and four others already are under indictment in the case.

The money, all in $10 and $20 bills, was in a tin can buried about fourteen inches deep near a fence post on the Sanky ranch. It was dug up by an agent who was a member of the suspected abduction band. Sanky's wife and four others already are under indictment in the case.

Moisture For Grain In Saskatchewan

Saskatoon, April 26.—While an overcast sky and lowered temperatures gave promise of moisture in central Saskatchewan, farmers in the west of the province were encouraged by substantial precipitation yesterday evening and this morning.
At least nine districts in the west of the province reported snow, six inches having fallen at North Battleford. Numerous points reported rain-fall.
If the present precipitation becomes general there will be enough moisture in the ground for germination, it is estimated.

CANADA SHIPPING BILL IS REWRITTEN

leader in the Senate, was the proposal now being deliberated on by the government to impose a duty on non-Canadian-built ships which engage in the Canadian coastal trade.
Chief among the "constitutional difficulties" was that the Parliament of Canada had no power to give directions to members of the British consular service. The draft shipping bill purported to assume such powers.
In order to regularize legislation on such points, the other members of the British Commonwealth would have to pass interlocking legislation, the Senate leader said.

The committee adjourned with Senator Meighen declaring the issue bill would be introduced into the Senate shortly.

GREAT LAKES TRADE
The new bill is expected to retain provisions of the old one regarding the coastal trade.

For years Canadian shippers have urged a "jacking up" of the laws to stop United States vessels loading grain or other cargoes at the head of the Great Lakes, trans-shipping their cargoes to other United States ships at Buffalo or other lower lake ports, and then carrying them to other Canadian ports.

The measure killed to-day provided no ship other than of British registry "shall engage in the coastal trade of Canada" and provided penalties of fifty cents per ton of 4000 for goods so transported, and $200 for each passenger, with confiscation of the goods.

W. H. WALKER OF OTTAWA DIES
Ottawa, April 26.—William H. Walker, sixty-eight, assistant under-secretary of the Department of External Affairs and a member of the government service for the last forty-five years, died to-day after an illness of two weeks.

NANAIMO DIVORCE
Nanaimo, April 26.—In Supreme Court yesterday Chief Justice Morrison granted an absolute decree of divorce in favor of Edith May Baxter, against W. J. Baxter. The case was undefended. A. Leighton acted as counsel for Mrs. Baxter.

NEW TRADE PACTS SOUGHT

Britain Signs One With Denmark; Negotiates With Norway and Sweden

By GEORGE HANBLETON
Canadian Press Staff Writer
London, April 26.—The British trade agreement signed Monday with Denmark specifically safeguards the Imperial Conference trade agreements signed at Ottawa last year.
The pact is the first trade agreement the United Kingdom has negotiated with a foreign country since it abandoned its free trade policy and built up a tariff schedule. It is expected, however, that agreements with Norway and Sweden will follow. Agreements with other countries are in view, while the agreement long pending with Argentina is at present under discussion.

The Danish agreement covers a broad field. Danish butter, eggs, cream, bacon and sea fish find an assured market in Great Britain, although the actual quantity imported will in some cases be reduced.

AGREEMENTS RECOGNIZED
Great Britain gave either tariff concessions or undertakings not to increase tariffs over a wide area of its exports to Denmark. In addition, purchases of Danish goods by the British Commonwealth would have to pass interlocking legislation, the Senate leader said.

The committee adjourned with Senator Meighen declaring the issue bill would be introduced into the Senate shortly.

Higher Commodity Prices Objective Of British-U.S. Leaders

nations had been "fruitful in a way I hardly believed possible when I came." The same enthusiasm over results of the Anglo-American negotiations was expressed by those close to President Roosevelt.

War debts relief for Great Britain, taken up yesterday evening by the President and Prime Minister, were not mentioned in their final statement. It remained for future settlement together with the economic programme outlined by the two statesmen.

The debt payments will become due June 15, almost simultaneously with the meeting of the London World Economic Conference on which these statesmen pin their hope for accomplishment of steps outlined to-day.

It was announced it had been agreed between them and Edouard Herriot of France the World Economic meeting should be opened in London June 12.

HIGHER COMMODITY PRICES
To-day's joint declaration named an increase in the general level of commodity prices as its first and fundamental objective.

It was the text of the statement issued by Premier MacDonald and President Roosevelt to-day:
"As stated yesterday, our discussions on the questions facing the world economy were not designed to result in definite agreements, which must be left to the conference itself."

But it showed our two governments were looking with like purpose and a close similarity of methods at the main objectives of the conference and were impressed by the vital necessity of securing international agreements for their realization in the interests of the people of all countries.

The practical methods required for their realization were analyzed and explored.

"The necessity for an increase in the general level of commodity prices was recognized as primary and fundamental. To this end, a simultaneous action needs to be taken both in the economic and in the monetary field."

"Commercial policies have to be set to a new orientation. There should be a constructive effort to moderate the network of restrictions of all sorts by which commerce is at present hampered, such as tariff duties, quotas, exchange restrictions, etc. Central banks should by concerted action provide an adequate expansion of credit, and every effort should be used to the credit thus created into circulation."

"Enterprise must be stimulated by creating conditions favorable to business recovery, and governments can contribute by the development of appropriate programmes of capital expenditures. The ultimate re-establishment of equilibrium in the international exchanges should also be contemplated."

INTERNATIONAL STANDARD
"We must, under circumstances permit, re-establish an international monetary standard, which will operate successfully without depressing prices and avoid the repetition of the mistakes which have produced such disastrous results in the past."

"In this connection the question of silver, which is of such importance in trade with the Orient, was discussed and proposals were tentatively suggested for the improvement of its status."

"These questions are all inter-related and cannot be settled by an individual country acting by itself. The achievement of sound and lasting world recovery depends on co-ordinating domestic remedies and supplementing them by concerted and simultaneous action in the international field."

"The proposals examined will be discussed with the representatives of the nations who have been invited to Washington with a view to securing the fullest possible measure of common understanding before the (London) conference meets. It is the hope of both governments it may be possible to convene the conference for June."

NEW IMPETUS
"We have in these talks found a reassurance of unity of purpose and method. They have given a fresh impetus to the solution of the problems that weigh so heavily on the most stable, industrious and deserving men and women of the world—the human foundation of civilization. The hard luck it is our common object to alleviate."

Mr. MacDonald told the newspapermen they were "no agreements." He said he was as free as when he came, but that it was "real, good business that we've done."

His interview was given in the President's executive offices, preliminary to the resumption at the White House to-day of the discussion between President Roosevelt and former Premier Herriot of France.

FROM MEXICO
Meanwhile the State Department was informed Alberto J. Pani, Mexican Minister of Finance, planned to reach Washington May 5 to join the world economic conference.

This meant this country's southern neighbor would be among the first to enter the discussions following the great exchanges with leading statesmen of Canada, Great Britain and France.

Washington, April 26.—Forceful drive for world betterment was directed in international conversations to-day squarely at the twin problems of war debts and arms reduction.

Negotiations between visiting envoys and President Roosevelt assumed a wider scope and potency with disclosure the President was working to bring France into line at the Geneva disarmament conference and that debt bargaining with the British had begun.

As Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald of Great Britain left for home, his memorable five-day "week-end" over full significance of the little economic conference programme and the vast potentialities it involves were outlined in clearer detail.

Far from side-stepping the debt and disarmament questions, Mr. Roosevelt apparently is to see the definition aid as quickly as possible in order to create a propitious atmosphere for the World Monetary and Economic Conference in London.

On that conference the President is building his hopes for recovery of the United States and the rest of the world from the higher depression.

WORLD AWAITED FROM JAPAN
London, April 26.—June 12, fixed by Prime Minister MacDonald, President Roosevelt and former Premier Herriot of France as assembling time for the World Economic Conference in London, is accepted in Downing Street as final, barring serious objection by Japan or some other far-distant nation.

There was a possibility Japan would consider the notice too short to permit its delegation to arrive here.

ABANDON THEORY
Canadian Press
Vancouver, April 26.—Chief of Police John Cameron has abandoned belief in the theory that Stewart Ashley was kidnapped and believes he went to Vancouver Island of his own free will. The working of his tragic adventure there, however, still puzzles the chief.

A weighted bundle of clothing was found in the slough yesterday bearing a cleaner's mark similar to those on Ashley's clothing at home. Ashley's family, however, deny that he owned such clothing as that found.

To-day Alan A. MacLachlan of Victoria, Esquimalt and Nanaimo Railway trainman, viewed the body of Ashley at undertaking parlors here and identified it as that of a man who had beaten his way over the railway from Nanaimo to Victoria last Friday afternoon.

POISONING POSSIBILITIES
The direct cause of death is not known as yet. Presence of carbon monoxide in the blood which had previously led to belief in murder or mishap during a kidnapping, possibly during a gasboat trip to Vancouver Island, does not necessarily mean that Ashley died from this form of poisoning, it is stated. A person taking a long ride in an automobile or breathing the smoke from a locomotive might absorb carbon-monoxide into his blood without its being in sufficient quantity to cause death. Ashley's body was found not far from the right of way of the E. and N. Railway.

No motive for murder, other than the suggested kidnapping, is known.

It is learned that two kidnapping letters had been received by Ashley's father following the original demand, but these later were traced to the writer, who proved to be a mental case in a Greater Vancouver hospital.

Nations, however, have given alleged clues to the police based on messages received through clairvoyants, resulting in an abortive raiding time in running down false leads.

In the meantime the report

ALL-BRAN RELIEVED HIS CONSTIPATION

Delicious Cereal Brought New Health to Mr. Bartholmew

We quote from his voluntary letter: "I had considerable trouble with my stomach. Digestion was out of the question. I got medicine which gave me only temporary relief."

"Then I thought of taking ALL-BRAN. I started eating a cereal dish two or three times a day."

"It has been over a year now since I ate that first dish of bran, but from that day to this I have had the pleasure of enjoying the proper functioning of the digestive organs."

"Thanks to ALL-BRAN, I still eat it regularly and like it better all the time." Lester Bartholmew. (Address furnished upon request.)

Constipation is usually due to lack of "bulk" to exercise the intestines, and vitamin B to promote elimination. ALL-BRAN supplies both, as well as iron for the blood.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that of leafy vegetables. Certainly this food is more natural than taking harmful patent medicines. Two table-spoonfuls daily will overcome most types of constipation. With each meal in chronic cases. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

The Senior Regent, Mrs. A. Hatcher, has been a member for the past ten years and has led the chapter for the past four and a half years. The chapter, formed twelve years ago, is an auxiliary of the Royal Order of Moose and their purpose is service to members and the community, especially underprivileged children. They were first recognized as a unit of fraternity in 1912 at a convention in Kansas City. From small groups by 1914, the women's auxiliary had reached the membership of 1400, consisting of 171 units scattered in Canada and U.S.A. At the Milwaukee convention in 1914, they were given the name of Women of the Moose.

The whole drive was in charge of Mrs. Hatcher, the winner of the year. Ladies first, Mrs. C. Hopkins; ladies second, Mrs. C. Spence; gentlemen first, Mr. F. Hatcher; gentlemen second, Mr. G. Leckie; Mrs. M. Pierce was at the receipt of custom and Mr. Allan acted as M.C. Supper was served by Mesdames M. Robertson, H. Allan, C. Dewdney and Miss D. Guelph. Tickets were sold on a pair of pillow slips and won by F. Moulton. Dancing was enjoyed by V. Bertucci's orchestra.

Home Wedding Of Well-known Couple Yesterday

Yesterday evening, at "Rosalea," Carey Road, the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. Bridge, the bride's parents, Miss H. Bridge was married to Mr. James E. Hall, both being well known in Vancouver business and social circles. Rev. E. F. Church officiated at the wedding.

The bride's gown was a French model of deep blue silk crepe with hat and shoes to match, and a corsage of pink roses and lilies-of-the-valley. The bride's mother wore a dress of brown silk crepe trimmed with flame, and a corsage of roses.

The house was beautifully decorated for the occasion with greenery, tulips and masses of apple blossom, and the bride and groom stood beneath an archway of white streamers with a large white bell in the center. For traveling, the bride wore jade green and a coat of beige trimmed with fox fur and accessories to match.

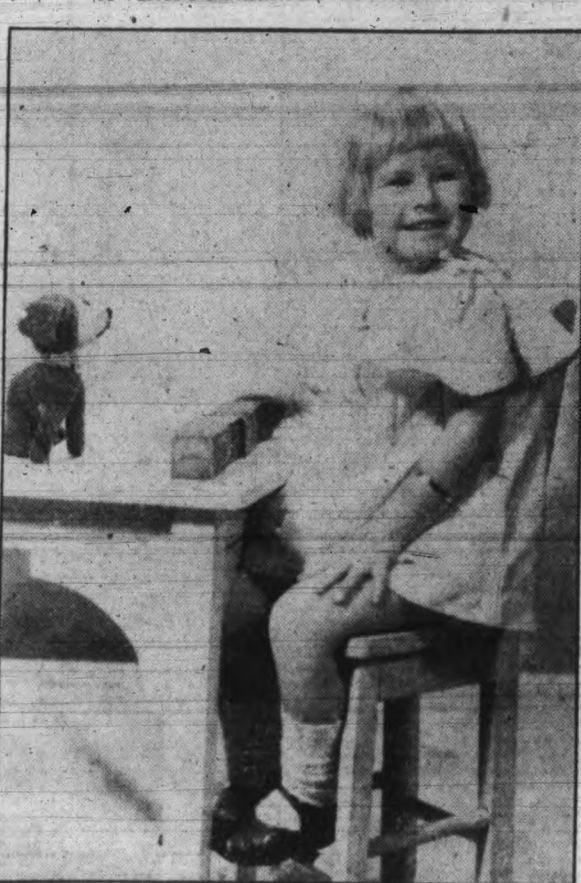

St. John's A.Y.P.A. At Observatory

A "mystery night" attracted a capacity crowd of members and friends to St. John's A.Y.P.A. on Monday evening. At 9 o'clock the sound of a motor caused a shout of "all aboard!" from the present, Jack Laver, and the mystery was solved—the Dominion Observatory was the destination of the bus load.

Dr. Harper explained and demonstrated the mechanism of the telescope and its accessories, and showed a number of interesting slides. After thanking Dr. Harper the crowd returned to the hall, where Miss Kae Brown and her committee served coffee and cake.

Prior to the solving of the "mystery," a meeting was held and Miss L. Trickett gave a report of the recent council meeting. A committee, convened by Miss H. Forsyth and consisting of Miss V. Dodds, Messrs. H. Gahan and F. Erickson, was formed to arrange summer activities.

Tariff Barriers And Wrong Internal Taxation Methods Big Factors In Depression

Professor G. S. Drummond, Department of Economics, University of British Columbia, Addresses Women's Canadian Club on "What Can Canada Do?"; Removal of Trade Restrictions Would Increase Purchasing Power and Relieve Unemployment

The fallacy of the belief that countries, by raising tariff barriers and cutting down imports, were protecting themselves was exposed in the address given by Professor George S. Drummond, assistant professor in the department of economics of the University of British Columbia, before the Women's Canadian Club yesterday afternoon.

Speaking on the subject "What Can Canada Do?" as an economist "viewing the situation from the side lines," he contended that Canada's policy in dealing with the present economic problem had been wrong.

"We have increased our tariffs thinking we could protect ourselves by cutting down imports, and all we have achieved is the cutting down of our exports. In internal taxation we have used indirect instead of direct taxation, which is wrong. In fact, we have done everything possible to cumulate the depression and make things worse," Prof. Drummond said.

Closer co-operation between politicians and economists might be beneficial to the country, suggested Professor Drummond, but he hastened to clear himself of any intent to criticize either provincial or federal statesmen. His contention was that a broader view might be taken of Canadian affairs, which should be looked upon not merely from the standpoint of the internal situation, but from relationship to world-wide problems.

Canada, like many other countries, had been affected by the post-war tendency to economic nationalism, as expressed in higher tariffs, dumping duties and similar handicaps to free exchange of trade with the rest of the world. The United States' world trade dropped only about 10 per cent, while the total trade, but in Canada the slowing down of international trade was a far more serious problem, he declared, as Canada depended more largely upon world markets for its primary products.

NEW ORIENTATION OF CREDITS Along with the post-war period came a new orientation of credits, and the shift in trade which the change in debtor-creditor relationships had caused. Before the war the United States had a large excess of export trade because it was a large debtor country, but practically overnight, as the result of the war, it became a creditor country, and its export trade situation was reversed. This had resulted in a change in the direction of world trade, and the U.S. instead of accepting a payment of debts in goods and trade, had by its extremely nationalistic economic policy, received instead the backwash of gold. As a result gold became comparatively scarce and prices fell to the world over.

With every fall in the price level, the real burden of debt increased, continued Professor Drummond. The total trade, while falling, had still to carry the same burden of debt, thus contributing largely to international difficulties and economic depression.

It proceeded to show how Canada had been effected by this situation, and what was the direction of the world trade, such as lumber and wheat, and it had been trying to send these products to countries which had raised barriers to keep these products out. The result was that the Canadian dollar was reduced in an effort to cheapen the price of exports, and thus secure markets for her goods. Professor Drummond briefly reviewed the debt of Canada, which owes externally about four and a half billion dollars, which is about what Great Britain owes the United States. Owing to the comparative smallness of the population, the debt per capita in Canada is much higher than in Great Britain. But whereas Canada owes chiefly to investors in the United States and Britain, Great Britain's debt is owing to the United States government, he pointed out. This means that Canada should have an excess of export trade of $3,000,000 per year to pay the interest on its debt alone. Falling prices meant that infinitely more wheat and lumber must be sold, in excess of imports, to pay for Canada's debts, and to combat the excess tariffs of other nations.

Your Baby
and Mine

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

DON'T TRY TO FIND OBSCURE
CAUSES FOR BABY'S LOW WEIGHT

We would more easily recognize an underfed baby were it not for the mother's propensity to excuse thinness on every score but that of feeding.
While children resemble parents in their bony structure and, as they grow, tend to be thin and tall or short and fat or broad and bony, it is typical of infancy that the well-fed infant is covered generously with flesh. Mothers merely blind their eyes to the necessity for correcting and changing baby's diet

when they say, "Oh, he's small boned," or, "His father and I are both thin."

CHARACTERISTICS
The underfed baby has some rather general characteristics. He gains weight very slowly. He is exceedingly active, a sort of nervous, jump activity that makes him wake up at light sounds, be up and on his feet or running about constantly, living up to his reputation of being a "live wire." Often he has a rather melancholy look with heavily fringed eyelids, and deep circles under his eyes. This sad, mournful expression is due to the shadows under his eyes, which make him look so old and wise and unhappy.
The underfed baby is almost invariably constipated. He is not given sufficient food to make a daily movement possible, and because of this he is subjected to constant dosing with laxatives, which only increases his tendencies toward constipation. Nature never has a chance to work unaided.

VARIOUS CAUSES
The causes of his under-nourishment are not always as easy to find.
The baby may get enough of the right
food, but vomit large quantities of it.
He may be the victim of various food intolerances which make it impossible for him to derive the proper nourishment from the food he eats.
Instead, food causes him to have excessive, slimy, greenish bowel movements. These in turn confirm his mother's belief that he needs less food.
All of this results in making it impossible for him to be anything but underfed, underweight, constipated and irritable.

Certainly it is a mistake for mothers to hunt excuses for their baby's failure to gain. So long as they see no connection with what they are feeding the baby, his condition becomes progressively worse, chronic and harder to correct. An understanding eye on the weight chart, sensibly recognizing that the baby is not gaining, is the first step toward a fair trial rate, will do much to prevent baby's becoming a victim of chronic underfeeding just because the mother refuses to admit his state for what it is.

To-morrow: "Jealousy as Natural to Child as Love."

NEW YORK'S SOCIETY ON EASTER FASHION PARADE

Ishbel MacDonald Tells U.S.
Press Stringency Good for Any Country

Washington, April 26 (Associated Press)—Labor problems yesterday continued to occupy the attention of Ishbel MacDonald, daughter of the British Prime Minister, up to the last minute of her stay at the White House.
While bags were being packed for her departure late yesterday she attended a White House tea with Grace Abbott, chief of the Children's Bureau, and Mary Anderson, director of the Women's Bureau, with whom she spent much of her time on her last visit to this country.

Early in the day she had "glowed with pride," as she put it, at the house committee hearing on the thirty-hour week bill at which Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins testified. Miss Macdonald attended with Mrs. Franklin D.
Roosevelt, wife of the President, and Mary W. Dawson of New York, a leader in the Democratic party.

Just preceding the final tea at the White House, Miss MacDonald held a press conference, speaking of her visit here as a "short but happy dream."
She had noted little change here, but she foresees one due to hard times.
"But it is good for the country to go through hard times," she said. "It brings out the good."

"Hard times in England have made people more conscious of their government, although they were always quite generally interested. They say now that conditions are intolerable,

has become the concern of half the United States, was reported in a "satisfactory" condition today after an operation that removed her left eye.

Only time will tell, however, whether the operation, which had been opposed bitterly by the girl's mother, was performed in time to save the child from death.

The eye and a malignant tumor behind it were removed in fifteen minutes late yesterday by Dr. John H.
Dunington, assistant to Dr. John H.
Wheeler, who in 1931 removed a cataract from the eye of the King of Siam.

If all goes well, Helen will be out of the hospital in a week or so, and after the eye socket heals will be fitted with a glass eye.

carry them out at no cost to the girls.

HOPE DIAMOND
AS SECURITY

Associated Press

Washington, April 26.—The historic and brilliant Hope Diamond, which legend says casts a spell of ill fortune on its owners, is Mrs. Evelyn Walsh McLean's basis of hopes for financial help in achieving an overpowering ambition—keeping control of the Washington Post for her sons.

The estranged wife of Edward S. Mc-Lean, former publisher of the newspaper, made known yesterday that she wanted to put up the 44½ carat diamond, along with other valuable jewels in her collection, as security for a loan.

Friends of Mrs. McLean said she hoped to raise $500,000 from all the jewels. The diamond is reported to have cost upward of $800,000, while several millions are understood to have been paid for the entire collection.

The Post now is in receivership and Mrs. McLean wants to make an offer to buy it.

But the "Y" will disclose plans made for the spring and summer, which will include outdoor badminton, for which racquets and shuttlecocks will be provided, and a small putting green on the new lawn will be available.

"The Tangle"

A Novel by
H. LAWRENCE PHILLIPS
Author of "Cap'n Benny" and "A Friendless Millionaire"

"Quite right. Come along, Rittler, and you others. We'll run along to the 'Lindens' in the car, and our friend here can guide us to the place where the motor and body are. Have you a torch? Good. You your lantern, Birks? Good again. With the help of our friends' torch and my own we can get along. Jump in, Birks. Manson's bustling commands were obeyed, and a very brief space of time found them at the entrance to the lane 'alongside the 'Lindens' to which Troate had referred."

"Now then, out you get," he ordered, as he brought the car to a standstill. "Why not run right up in the car? If one has done it we can," suggested Rittler.

"Possibly; but we might destroy valuable traces if we did."

"Very well then," replied the Inspector, and they all got out.

The first part of the way was fairly easy going along a cart track, and the moonlight made it easy to follow; but when they got to Linsley Spinnery they lost their helpful rays, and the road was rougher. Though wide enough for a small motor, the path was overgrown and the going very bad, and their torches and Birks' lanterns enabled them to get along. When they turned down the path to Coombe Common, through a gate which they had to open, it became narrower and much more tangled.

"Whoever drove the car here must have found it a difficult job; see how the bushes on either side are torn," said Manson, turning the light of his torch on them as he spoke.

Rittler had no time to answer, for, being a yard or so ahead with Troate, he saw the other side of the quest first, and uttered a cry.

"Here we are," he called; and his shout in the silence of the wood roused other senses, as birds, roused at the invasion of their sanctuary, uttered their warning cries.

"Miss Debnam's car, sure enough," said Rittler in almost a whisper, as he shone his lantern on the number plate. Then, as they silently followed Troate around the head of the car, they saw the still form of a woman, lying half propped against the wheel with the face covered with something white.

"Troate be right," his Miss Debnam herself. "I recognized her dress," Birks' tones were heard, when he sank still lower as he said the words, the awe of the tragedy weighing upon him.

CHAPTER XII

The scene was a striking one; through the pitch darkness the light of the torches stabbed its way, making the faces of four men, who stood shone upon them, appear white in their gleam, and showing the awe which the presence of death brings. In the branches of the trees the birds still stirred uneasily.

"Are you sure that it's Miss Debnam?" asked Rittler, in a voice the tones of which re-echoed those of Birks.

"Sure, sure as I can be," his her dress answer.

"We can make quite certain," said Manson quietly, as he stooped and slowly and carefully removed the handkerchief which covered the face.

"Is her right enough," whispered Troate, and she've been shot same as his sister." For in the centre of the forehead was the mark of the bullet which had caused death.

The features were calm and composed, and only a little blood had exuded from the wound to stain them; recognition was easy.

"Looks as if we had the answer to the problem of the 'Lindens,' said the Inspector in his tones.

"It looks as though it had become more complicated," rejoined Manson. "However, our first business is to get the body removed, and Birks and Troate had better get the gate off its hinges and we can manage to get to the 'Lindens' in that way. It's only a matter of a third of a mile."

He gave the men the necessary orders, and they went off.

"Before they move the body I want to mark out the position in which it is lying, so just cut some sticks to serve as pegs."

Rittler moved off to do so, and uttered an exclamation, directing the light of his torch to the ground; and Manson saw lying at his feet an automatic pistol which he was about to pick up.

"Don't move it for a moment, we'll put a peg there."

Rittler looked at him inquiringly, but Manson was apparently occupied in taking careful measurements of the distance from the hand to the pistol, and was busy jotting down the results in his notebook when Rittler came back with the pegs.

Manson took one of them and removed the weapon, taking it carefully by the barrel, wrapping it in his handkerchief and placing it in his pocket; then, taking one of the pegs, he put it in position.

"What are you doing, taking all that trouble?" Rittler asked, "It's pretty evident what has happened; she shot her sister either deliberately or accidentally, and then, overcome by what she had done, drove out and shot herself."

"Come, come, Rittler, use your brains. Look at that man! and he pointed to the handkerchief covering the face. "Well, to be sure! I suppose that I'm half asleep to be such a fool; of course she didn't put a bullet in her brain and then the handkerchief over her face. The only thing, did her in is responsible for that."

"I don't think so," was the somewhat amazing reply. "Look at the thing," and quietly removing the linen covering of the face he held it in the light.

"Well, I can't see any marks on it. No name, and no laundry mark that I can see."

"For any other mark either."

"Pshaw! I get you. You mean that had it been placed over the face immediately it must have been stained by the fresh blood?"

"Yes, that is very evident. But who did it? And if it was someone unconnected with the crime who happened upon the body before Troate, why didn't they inform us?"

"Now you know why I suggested that the problem of the 'Lindens' had become more complicated. But here they are with the gate. I'll finish pegging out the position, and make a few more measurements."

He proceeded to do so. The body was lying in a semi-recumbent position, facing against a bush, with the arms lying with palms extended on either side. Manson placed the pegs to mark the position of the hands and feet, and tied a small piece of rag on the bush at the height reached by the head, measuring carefully the distances with a small tape measure which he produced, and entering up the figures in his notebook.

When he had finished his task the body was lifted on to the gate, and the four men bore the ghastly burden off to the 'Lindens.' They were all glad when the task was accomplished, and the body laid upon the bed, the man in charge of the premises helping.

Manson went to a drawer and got another covering for the face, carefully folding the one he had replaced.

"This doesn't tell us much, but every little helps in this tangle of things," he remarked as he did so. "Now I think that you had better bung off and get the doctor here as soon as you can. Can you phone at this time?"

"No, that can't be done—there is no night service."

"Then there's nothing for it but the car, if you don't mind."

"Well, it will wait until the morning," I am rather anxious to get his opinion at once, and the few hours will make a difference. I am sure I'll go," Manson remarked.

Of course that aroused Rittler, as was intended, and he declared himself perfectly competent to do as was arranged.

"About that," he didn't see the necessity for the hurry Manson was in. The latter smiled cryptically as he gently and imperceptibly started the Inspector for the door.

"I think that I'll have a look around while you are away. I suppose that you won't be gone more than an hour," he said, as he shut the door of the car.

Car started up, "that's if I can rouse the doctor early."

Manson grinned, and waved a hand as the car moved off.

"I am afraid that I shall have to keep you, Birks, but Troate can be off. Only keep a still tongue, my man, until you are told to speak; you'll find it pay you," and he nodded cheerfully as the man went.

"Your business, Birks, will be to prevent anyone—anyone, remember—going out that path. It isn't very likely that you will be troubled much at this time of night, but you never know. I am going back to the car to have a look at things. I'll be back before the Inspector; but if I shouldn't be, you can tell him where I am."

Birks touched his helmet, and Manson made off on his self-appointed task, having borrowed the policeman's lamp.

"Now for it," he said to himself. "I shall be worried by Birks for a while, anyway."

Proceeding slowly, and casting the light of torch and lamp all around, he made his way along the track. Traces were few, here and there was the evidence of the passage of the car, most of the marks of the broken branches where the car had brushed against the sides of the road. The marks of the car were few, here and there was the evidence of the passage of the car, most of the marks of the broken branches where the car had brushed against the sides of the road.

The detective had hardly expected any other result, so he was not disappointed.

As he approached the spot where the gate had been he began to look more carefully.

"The beggar must have got out here to open the gate," he muttered. "I wonder what luck?" Alas for his expectation. The ground here was hard and stony, and left no impression.

"Luck's out," he exclaimed, just then he caught sight of something that raised his hopes again. A rabbit had been seeking the new evidence, and by the side of the path the earth which had flung out in the process lay loose on the ground, and upon the earth there was an unmistakable print.

The first thing Manson noted was that it was made when coming away from the car; the next thing that he observed was that the print was soft, and to take out his tape measure, and to enter figures in his notebook.

Having done so, he stood frowning for a moment.

"It's black, black as midnight, but I don't believe it somehow," and winding his tape measure he proceeded thoughtfully towards the car, shaking his head from time to time.

He gave the car a thorough examination, observing carefully some ominous brown spots on the upholstery. An apparent rent in the leather attracted his attention, and he passed his hand through it. He discovered that the rent was only apparent—the upholstery was detachable, and a sort of bag formed, capable of holding a fair amount of stuff. The opening was cunningly hidden, and when fastened would be difficult to detect. Concealed within it was a number plate and a registration card to match.

Manson smiled grimly.

Uncle Wiggly's Black Seeds

By HOWARD R. GARIS

While Uncle Wiggly was talking to fat Mr. Twisty, the pig gentleman, about making a flower garden, and while Baby Bunty had dropped the petunia seeds which looked like grains of black pepper, and while the thunder clouds were gathering to make a rain-storm to wet the rabbit gentleman's new garden, something else was happening in the woods not far away.

The sneaky Old Bob Cat, who had been hiding behind the hedge around Uncle Wiggly's bungalow and who had heard the rabbit gentleman tell Nurse Jane about his flower garden, had quickly run to the woods where he knew the Fox lived.

When he had finished his task the body was lifted on to the gate, and the four men bore the ghastly burden off to the 'Lindens.' They were all glad when the task was accomplished, and the body laid upon the bed, the man in charge of the premises helping.

SIDE GLANCES

By George Clark

"So you can estimate that the first year's profits would pay off the mortgage."

FIND CANCER NOT HEREDITARY

Experiments on 52,000 Rats Show Disease Results From Irritant

Results of Work of Three Physicians Over Twelve-year Period Described

New York, April 26.—What is described by Dr. Francis Carter Wood, director of the Institute of Cancer Research, Columbia University, as an "extremely hopeful discovery" in cancer research, giving practical assurance to millions the world over that cancer is not hereditary, is reported to-day in the current issue of "The American Journal of Cancer," of which Dr. Wood is the editor.

The discovery is described in a report on twelve years' investigation on more than 52,000 rats by Dr. M. R. Curtis, W. F. Dunning and F. D. Bullock of the Institute of Cancer Research and elucidated in a statement by Dr. Wood.

The studies show, according to Dr. Wood, that cancer is not carried in the germ-cells, or the genes, which are the carriers of hereditary traits, but occurs in the body cell owing to some irritant. Heredity may determine whether an individual will be susceptible to a certain irritant, but as long as the irritant is not present the disease will not develop, even though the individual's parents had suffered from it. It is further necessary that the irritant be present for a prolonged period for the disease to develop.

In other words, the important factors in the development of cancer are long life, the presence of an irritant, and susceptibility to that irritant. Hence, the likelihood of a person developing cancer is a large extent dependent upon chance, Dr. Wood states.

"Any one who has cancer in his family," Dr. Wood says, "wants to know whether the disease is inherited; in other words, whether he or she is more likely to have the disease because of some of his or her ancestors had it. An interesting answer to the question has been given by Dr. Curtis, Dunning and Bullock of Columbia University, who say that chance is an important factor."

For twelve years these investigators have been breeding white and colored rats and infesting them with a parasitic worm which causes cancer of the liver. Over 28,000 have been so treated and the total number of animals studied more than 52,000. Of the 28,000 only 3,300 developed cancer.

"The studies of the conditions underlying the appearance of this cancer have been most interesting," Dr. Wood states.

"I must hurry," said Mr. Longears. "It will rain in a few minutes. I have only the petunia seeds to plant. Where are they, Bunty?"

"Here they are," said Bunty, hopping out of the bungalow with a paw full of black pepper, which in her mistake, she thought was what she had been given to plant. When she let the packet of petunia seeds fall, the packet of pepper seeds fell with it.

"Now, I'll plant them and my garden will be finished," said Uncle Wiggly, and he hurried to the garden. Bunty, in a hurry home, Twisty, before it rains.

"I will, grunted the pig, and away he waddled. Just then along came the Bob Cat, and he was just about to grab Uncle Wiggly and maybe Baby Bunty also. But, all of a sudden, the brave little orphan rabbit threw the black seeds right in the eyes, nose and mouth of the Bob Cat.

"Oh, pepper! Oh, pepper! How my eyes smart!" howled the Bob Cat, and, turning around, he saw that Bunty, as he legs would take him, ambling and burning from the black pepper.

"Pepper! Why, weren't those petunia seeds, Bunty? Then the orphan rabbit told how she had brought pepper out to replace the seeds she had dropped, and Mr. Longears said it was a good thing for it drove away the Bob Cat. So everything was O. K.

And if the rubber boots will stop trying to tickle the umbrellas in the ribs when they're playing out in the rain, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggly's thunderstorm.

Italians Studying Peace Club Plan

Associated Press

Rome, April 26.—Officials to-day said some action was expected before the end of the week on the French memorandum replying to Premier Mussolini's four-point peace club plan.

Premier Mussolini has practically agreed to the French suggestion, it was learned on reliable authority, and a delay now is caused by recent suggestions made by the German Government.

Proposals regarding the revision of peace treaties are said here to be the principal difference between the Mussolini plan for collaboration by Great Britain, France, Italy and Germany, and the French memorandum.

How Celebrities Behave Before Ship News Reporters

By JULIA BLANSHARD

New York, April 26.—It's a silent, gum group of reporters and photographers that gathers at South Ferry on mornings when celebrities are arriving in the U.S.A.

The little revenue cutters Raritan and Wissackien leave the dock at 7 o'clock sharp. No waiting for anyone. And no excuses are accepted by editors when you miss the boats.

Only old-timers realize that breakfast is important for that cold ride down the grey bay. Only old-timers know the value of woolen mittens, which one ship reporter always wears. Women have to go down in new spring suits. Even in summer, it's a cold rough ride.

During the first hour of the trip, you have to produce your revenue cut, your pass, issued by Philip Edging, collector of the Port of New York's office. Men get them through their newspaper offices. Women have to go down in person to the custom's office and battle it out with the powers that be. Old

George Bernard Shaw is the only visiting celebrity who ever absolutely refused to grant interviews and had to be coaxed for two hours to pose for pictures. Usually once aboard, it's only a matter of flicking to the Great Person's cabin, getting the interview, and then sitting down to sandwiches and coffee or some other refreshment that the ship provides.

GANGPLANK NOTES

The Prince and Princess of Sweden were the most amused of all celebrities who have arrived here. They seemed to be highly entertained by the whole performance. Gall-Curiel is the most dignified and yet utterly charming favorite. Ramsay MacDonald is among the handsomest.

Queen Marie was temperamental, with a score of waiters and stewards acting as a flying wedge between reporters and the monarch. Mary Queen of Scots always looks so brown and healthy and always has something that gives reporters their lead the minute she speaks. Jane Addams likes to have questions written out and handed her. She takes them all and answers them in order, in clear, concise manner. Fanny Ward always turns hand-springs, or stands on her head, to show she's still young at sixty-eight or so. Gloria Swanson, Constance Bennett and Peggy Joyce always have the best-looking clothes.

One of the funniest incidents occurred when the Prince of Wales arrived. A rather stout woman reporter, who always carries a bag of brown Swiss, was carrying a bag of brown Swiss.

That morning the day was calm, and she didn't need her crackers. As Gall-Curiel she leaped up the small gangplank, she caught her foot and fell at the feet of the Prince, who stood at salute. Her crackers flew in every direction, to the amusement of everyone except the Prince, who, with regal gaze fixed elsewhere, affected not to notice any untoward happening.

which must be assumed if the liability to cancer is carried in the germ cells as such. Instead, Drs. Curtis, Dunning and Bullock feel that cancer attacks the healthy tissues of the body, but only following irritation, and that hereditary factors play a part only in so far as they determine whether an individual will have a long or short life, and whether he will or will not be susceptible to a given irritant."

DEPORTATIONS ARE CRITICIZED

Mayor of Liverpool, England, Scores Canada's Course During Depression

By Theo. T. Champion, Canadian Press Staff Writer.

London, April 26.—Canada is going against the principles of imperialism and brotherhood by deporting great numbers of British-born citizens as soon as they lose their jobs and become dependent on the public, in the opinion of Alfred Gates, Lord Mayor of Liverpool.

Presiding over a meeting of the Travelers' Aid Society yesterday he said he had encountered Prime Minister Bennett on his last arrival in England and the Canadian Premier had not "attempted to justify" what was being done.

That occasion was the arrival of a vessel from Canada on which were 400 deportees, 250 of them being natives of the United Kingdom.

The Canadian Minister was a passenger and as they were waiting the boat train Mr. Gates said he had asked Mr. Bennett whether it was quite in accordance with the spirit of the Ottawa Conference and Anglo-Canadian relations generally that Canada should send these deportees back to England after many years' residence in the Dominion, especially in view of the unemployment here.

Yellow River Civilization
Spread 2,000 Years Later, Archaeologist Reveals

Neolithic Finds Indicate
Glacial Era Winds Drove All Life From Eastern Asia

New York, April 26.—Recent archaeological discoveries in China definitely establish for the first time that the civilization of the Yellow River Valley is from 1,000 to 2,000 years later than the civilization of the Nile, Euphrates and Indus Rivers, the Shanghai Tiffin Club was told by L. G. Goodrich, lecturer on Chinese language and history at Columbia University, at a meeting in the George Washington Hotel.

Mr. Goodrich has just returned from China, where he spent two years on a Willard Straight Fellowship. He was formerly on the staff of the Higher Normal School of Peiping, in the vicinity of which he was born of missionary parents, and also served with the China Medical Board of the Rockefeller Foundation.

The Shanghai Tiffin Club is composed entirely of former residents in China and has a membership of about 250. Dr. E. H. Hume, vice-president of the New York Post Graduate Hospital and dean of its medical school, is president of the club.

REPORTS ON NEOLITHIC RELICS

Mr. Goodrich told of recent finds of a large number of skulls, as well as complete skeletons, dating back to the neolithic age, of dates estimated at from 2000 B.C. to 3500 B.C. In the same strata with these neolithic relics there also were found types of painted pottery similar to those found in Europe and in Western Asia circa 3000 B.C.

Until these finds, Mr. Goodrich said, scientists did not know whether the civilization that flourished on the Yellow River, which extended to Southern Manchuria and Mongolia, was older, younger or contemporaneous with the civilizations on the other ancient rivers—the Nile, Euphrates and Indus. These finds establish as a fact that the civilization of the Yellow River was younger than the others by 1,000 to 2,000 years.

The painted pottery, Dr. Goodrich added, also shows that cultural influences traveled between Europe and Western Asia, South Manchuria, the Yellow River region and Mongolia. Referring to the discoveries of skulls of the paleolithic age, dating back to the existence of human life in China during the intermediate periods that followed the paleolithic and preceded the neolithic. This may be explained, he said, on the theory that during the Glacial Period the tremendous winds drove all living things to seek shelter elsewhere. In Europe these winds drove people from the north to the south. Where the early inhabitants of China were driven to is not known.

EXPLAINS DATING OF SKULLS

The period of the skulls, Dr. Goodrich explained, is determined by the age of the deposits in which they were found. Skulls found at the base of the loess, the clay deposits along the river bank, establish the fact that man inhabited this area in the paleolithic age, while skulls found at the top of the clay deposits show the existence of a civilization during the neolithic era.

The most recent finds of neolithic man in China, the lecturer said, were made in 1931 and 1932 in the Yellow River Valley by C. S. Tung, a Chinese archaeologist connected with the

WAGE CUT SNAG IN 30-HOUR LAW

Sharp Rise in Cost of Labor and Manufactured Articles Feared By Some

By RODNEY DUTCHER

Washington, April 26.—The real snag in the progress of the thirty-hour working week through the paths of legislation and executive approval is the probability—or possibility, if you prefer—that it will result in reduced income for the average wage earner.

The employed still outnumber the unemployed and most of them have had their wages cut to the point that any further reductions would be nothing short of agonizing.

SHIFT IN BUYING POWER?

It may be argued that millions of persons would acquire purchasing power who now have no purchasing power at all, but would it be entirely at the expense of the purchasing power of those who now possess it? If so, the sum total of purchasing power would remain the same. Demands for unemployment relief might diminish, but the standard of living for wage earners would drop to a point where they would have to work longer hours to get the same amount of money.

The American Federation of Labor, which has been preaching the short day and the short week for many years, has always insisted that there be no corresponding cut in wages.

But those who scoff at the idea of a federal thirty-hour law say that such a suggestion, under present conditions, is ridiculous. The A. F. of L. says forty-two hours was the average working week throughout industry in 1932 (though many workers put in ten ten hours a day and some even as many as sixteen). Reduction of twelve hours in the average working week would mean a wage reduction of more than 20 per cent in the case of any worker employed at an hourly wage in case nothing was done to prevent him from taking that cut. If no one suffered any wage loss, the employer would pay much more in wages.

FORECASTS PRICE RISE

Senator David A. Reed of Pennsylvania, one of the bitterest opponents of the thirty-hour week measure, said it would raise the labor cost of all manufactured articles 33 per cent. (Senators on the other side said they hoped it would be less.)

If wages were to be reduced proportionately with hours under such a law the effect would be merely that of a compulsory reduction of the "work" plan which was introduced with no very great success during the latter part of the Hoover administration. The work was almost invariably shared at the expense of the weekly pay check of the worker who was already employed.

Meanwhile, sweat shops sprang up in many states, employing desperate wage earners for long hours and pitifully low salaries. Obviously, manufacturers who want to give their employees a decent break have a very difficult meeting that sort of competition and many feel they can not help lowering their standards in the face of it.

Some solons would rather legislate for a thirty-six-hour week than a thirty-hour week on the belief that the wage drop would not then be so sharp.

ADVOCATES SEE NO CURS

The friends of the thirty-hour week measure, however, insist that the force of public opinion, the power of organized labor and the fact that the thirty-hour week would put all industrial employers on the same basis would combine to prevent any special loss to labor now employed.

Senator Hugo Black of Alabama admits that if his bill were to result in wage reductions it would not be accomplishing its purpose. But he is sure that there would be little incentive for proportionate wage cuts if all manufacturers were put on the same work-hour basis.

"There would be hostility throughout the nation to wage reductions corresponding to hour reductions," he says confidently. "It is my belief that if industry did attempt to follow such a method, the power of Congress would be broadened and amplified to meet new conditions."

Smithsonian Institution in Washington. Other recent finds have been made by Dr. C. L. who is in charge of archaeology at the Academic Sinica.

The influence of archaeology on modern Chinese and Japanese research is highly important, Mr. Goodrich declared. In the last 300 years scholars depended solely upon ancient books for information on early China and Japan. These recent archaeological discoveries furnish us with a clearer picture of these ancient civilizations

"EKO AND IKO" CIRCUS STARS

"Fungus-haired Men From Mars" Shown By Ringling
This Season

Madison Square Garden Sees Pre-opening Rehearsal of
"Greatest Show"

By PAUL HARRISON

New York, April 26.—Glee, gaiety and glitter—bands, bangles and bugles—frim lights and gaudy uniforms—timed and trapping—these are what circuses are made of. "The Greatest Show on Earth" proved it the other night at Madison Square Garden with its last rehearsal before the season's opening.

For it was not a dress rehearsal, and what is a circus without a ringmaster, resplendent in evening clothes, and clowning in giddy grotesqueries? Can you imagine Eko and Iko, "the fungus-haired men from Mars" in neatly pressed business suits and with elegantly-cocked felt hats on their fuzzy heads? Or Koban, "the man who walks on his head," complaining because his fancy new shoes were too tight?

And maybe you have thought that aerialists wear scanty costumes for greater freedom of action. They do not. On this night the Flying Codonas, the Rooneys and the Powells went through their dizzying acts dressed in ordinary trousers and sweaters; and, in the case of the women gymnasts, in bathing suits and pyjamas.

All very distinguishing, it was. But colorful because of its very incongruity. The Great Con Colleano, dancing dandy of the tight-wire, twirled a tattered raincoat instead of a silk-and-brocade cape. On the wire he stood revealed in old khaki pants, with a long tear in one leg of them. But Colleano pranced and postured—and accomplished his famous forward somersault. . . . Only Clyde Beatty, the big lion-and-tiger man fresh from Hollywood, appeared in formal costume. And that, he explained, was solely because the beasts were used to seeing him that way. . . . The living-stature tableaux brought a howl from visiting newspapermen. "Lo!" or some other poor Indian, was portrayed by an overboard roustabout with a cigar clenched in his teeth. And the girl who now dangles glittering wings and flimsy robe to symbolize "The Spirit of Flight" turned out to be a polo-coated flapper perched on the shoulders of an acrobat in a greasy bathrobe.

BEASTS' MYSTERY

Down below, in the labyrinthine maze of the Garden's basement, things were quieter, but uneasy. . . . Caged beasts, sleek and sassy from winter quarters, paced their smaller cages. . . . Horses were jittery with excitement. . . . Elephants snuggled and shuffled, and their keepers were vigilant, with newly-sharpened bull-horns ready.

Bustiest of all the behind-the-scenes people was Mrs. Phyllis Nelson, who now, after a career of Broadway musical comedy and working under the big top, is wardrobe mistress of the circus. She houses nearly fifty dressmakers and tailors, creates and keeps in order the 1,700-odd costumes worn by the performers, and even makes the parties and hats add such for the animals. Several people assist her with step-ladders and steel tapes when she takes the measure of an elephant.

"MISTER JOHN" MISSING
The circus folk will tell you that there is just one thing wrong with the show this year. "Mister John"—meaning old John Ringling—is still ill in Florida, and for the first time in anybody's recollection did not get here for rehearsals and opening night.

There never was anyone like Mister John to whip a show into shape, and the veterans do not feel quite right about starting the season without him. He had a quick eye, and always noticed when anything was amiss, such as a split—second of faulty timing on the part of an acrobat. He always mentioned mistakes, too, but never offered praise. Silence from Mister John was an accolade.

However, everyone is doing his best for the show's new general manager, Mr. Sam Gumpertz. They know that Ringling and Gumpertz were intimate friends for many years, and that Mister John personally selected him as his successor. The new executive, besides owning several theatres, is the biggest side-show man Coney Island ever had. He operates Dreamland Park at Coney, and one of his recent stunts was the importing from Africa of a whole Somal village with several three natives. P. T. Barnum would have loved him.

Support of the Kiwanis Club for the production "Outward Bound," to be presented at the Shrine Auditorium on April 26 and 29, by the Little Theatre Association under the auspices of the Gyro Club, was sought by the Gyros in a letter to the Kiwanians at their luncheon in the Empress Hotel yesterday.

50-YEAR LOW SET IN SHIPBUILDING

World Tonnage Only 740,944
For First Quarter of 1933

But Pick-up Is Indicated As Orders For Work Increase

London, April 22.—The construction of merchant shipping in the ten leading nations of the world, exclusive of Russia, decreased to a new low point for fifty years during the first three months of 1933, but several developments indicated an improvement in the general situation, according to the quarterly report of Lloyd's Register of Shipping, published yesterday.

The tonnage under construction on March 31 was 740,944 tons, a decrease of 24,776 tons for the quarter. The yards of Great Britain and Ireland retained first place with a total of 252,497 tons and the United States dropped from fifth to ninth place with a total of 31,128 tons, a decrease of nearly 50 per cent.

Only three nations, Great Britain, Sweden and Spain, reported increased activity, and losses were reported by France, Italy, Japan, Germany, Holland, the United States and Denmark. The situation was considered more hopeful, however, because the volume of orders for new construction obtained by the yards during the quarter exceeded for the first time in many months the volume of tonnage launched, and the decrease in construction was only one-fifth the decrease of 135,000 tons reported in the last quarter of 1932.

Germany and the United States suffered the severest declines. Germany dropping from third to sixth with a reduction of 27,745 tons. France maintained her standing in second place, Sweden advanced from seventh to third with an increase of 25,800 tons. Italy advanced from sixth to fourth and Japan dropped from fourth to fifth. Although Spain's total increased only 200 tons, she advanced from ninth to seventh. Holland remained in eighth and Denmark in tenth place.

The totals of the nations for the last two quarters, as compiled by Lloyd's, were as follows:

	Mar. 31, Dec. 31, 1932	1933
Great Britain and Ireland	252,497	252,497
France	97,480	101,678
Sweden	82,232	58,539
Italy	55,870	43,745
Germany	82,585	56,810
Japan	35,612	24,412
Holland	22,458	28,480
United States	31,128	25,628
Denmark	20,181	25,738
	740,944	768,728

At the start of the year Great Britain and Ireland were building only 29.4 per cent of the world total and to-day they are building 34.1 per cent, an increase of 5.7 per cent. Contracts were signed during the quarter for the construction of 130,794 tons of new shipping and 91,299 tons were launched. In the last quarter of 1932 the new tonnage totaled only 82,486 tons and the launchings 212,817 tons. This change is due principally to the award of contracts for 75,000 tons to the yards of Great Britain and Italy.

Only three merchant ships of 20,000 tons or more are now under construction in the yards of the world, Lloyd's stated. These are the United States liner Washington and the new Cunard and French Line ships. The construction of steam and motor tankers of 1,000 or more gross tons decreased from 164,400 to 160,590 tons due to the situation in the German yards, where the total decreased from 49,000 to 24,800 tons.

Motor vessels maintained their popularity, totaling 410,163 tons of the new construction as against 350,791 tons of all other types combined.

Of the total merchant tonnage under construction throughout the world, 499,310 tons are under the supervision of Lloyd's Register of Shipping, and intended for classification with that society. This includes 86 per cent of the tonnage of Great Britain and Ireland and 62 per cent of world tonnage.

NORMAL SCHOOL PLAYS FRIDAY

Comedy, Tragedy and Fantasy
Will Be Presented by Dramatic Society

On Friday evening the Normal School Dramatic Society will present their annual public performance. Throughout the year the society has been active in producing many small plays, giving as many students as possible an opportunity to demonstrate their abilities as actors or actresses. As a result much favorable talent has been discovered, and the executive has found it very difficult to choose the best and the most suitable students for the parts in the three one-act plays to be presented.

The first play, "The Oak Settle," written by the popular English dramatist, Harold Brighouse, is a delightful comedy dealing with English country folk. It depicts two characteristic types of English people—country and city. This will be followed by Ferguson's stirring drama, "Campbell of Kilbray." This is a tragedy of the seventeenth century, and is a play of character, the story being woven around the traditions of loyalty and duties of the Highlanders in those days. The bill will be completed by Victor Mape's Japanese fantasy, "A Flower of Yeddo," in which a poet's love and honor led him to the brink of tragedy, only to discover that it was all a clever plot to prove his worth. The stage setting and costumes have been specially designed to harmonize with the poetic nature of this delightful little play.

Time and effort have not been spared to make this performance successful. Music will be provided by the school orchestra under the direction of E. T. C. Wickett, also an extra feature will be a "curtain raiser" guaranteed to provoke a full five minutes of mirth.

A message of condolence will go forward from the Kiwanis Club to Fred M. McGregor, expressing the club's sympathy for the recent loss of his father.

Canadian Scottish to Hold B.C. Title Events in All Classes at Armories

MAY 19 AND 20 SET AS DATES

Local Aspirants Working Out Regularly for Big Ring Feature

Assured of the co-operation of all local sports bodies, Canadian Scottish Regiment officials were going ahead to-day with plans for the annual British Columbia boxing and wrestling championships at the Armories on May 19 and 20. Yesterday, Harry Warburton, making preliminary arrangements for the events, interviewed J. Percy Watson, local representative of the B.C. branch of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada, and secured from him a list of weight classifications along with the promise of every assistance the A.A.U. man can give the regiment.

WEIGHT CLASSES
Boxers from Victoria, Vancouver, New Westminster, up-Island and interior points will come over for the event which will be a feature of amateur boxing activities in Victoria. It will be the first time in the memory of active local fighters that provincial title events have been held in the city.

Slight weight classes have been drawn up for the boxing, and seven for the wrestling.

They are: Boxing—Flyweight, 112 pounds; bantamweight, 118 pounds; featherweight, 126 pounds; lightweight, 135 pounds; welterweight, 147 pounds; middleweight, 160 pounds; light-heavyweight, 175 pounds, and heavyweight, above that figure.

LOCAL PROSPECTS
Members of the host club, Canadian Scottish, are working out regularly for the big features under the watchful eye of Dave Lewis, well-known to Victoria for his interesting fights with Tommy Fielding. In addition to Ralph Hocking, clever middleweight and good hitter; Roy Lund, promising youngster; Tom Emby and Jerry Meyers, several other lads from the regiment are expected to turn out for a crack at the titles at stake.

From the Y.M.C.A. will come a group including Arnold Dawkins, boxer, and a strong contingent of wrestlers, led by Pete Tyson, Jim Yates, Harold Luney, Fred Loeffler, Rudy Loeffler, Harry Tyson, Red McMillan, Frank Waring, Geo. Farmer, Ken Roskelley and others. Of these Pete Tyson is holder of the provincial title, while Fred Loeffler is a former British Columbia champion. The boys have been active during the winter and can be counted upon to furnish strong opposition to outside grapplers.

Under the coaching of Bill Newton, several boys in the North Saanich Service Club have been brought along this year and can be looked to for good matches.

Cassidy, Ladysmith, Nanaimo and Port Alberni are virtually certain clubs which will send down boxers and wrestlers to join the island forces.

Negotiations with mainland centres to date have indicated a strong entry list, including several present champions.

What form the preliminaries will take has not yet been decided, but when an estimate of the number who will compete is forthcoming plans for the elimination bouts will proceed.

MARIE McNAB IS DEFEATED

Former Tennis Champion Drops Close Match in Vancouver City Golf Play

Vancouver, April 26.—Elimination of Miss Marie McNab, Point Grey, runner-up for medal honors in the qualifying round Monday with an 89, featured the first round of the city women's golf championship at Point Grey.

Miss McNab bowed to Mrs. J. J. Mason, Shaughnessy on the last green after a dramatic finish. The Point Grey player, a former Vancouver and British Columbia tennis champion, came from behind to square the match on the seventeenth, only to lose out as she missed a three-foot putt, and Mrs. Mason sank a fifteen-footer on the eighteenth.

Mrs. Vera Hutchings, Shaughnessy, medalist Monday, was given a nip-and-tuck battle by Miss Nora King, Point Grey star, until the eleventh hole, which they reached with Mrs. Hutchings in the lead. The Shaughnessy player won the twelfth and fifteenth and halved the sixteenth to clinch the match 3 and 2. Mrs. Gordon Wismer, Shaughnessy, finished strongly to win from Miss Kitty Duff Stewart, her clubmate, 2 up. This match stood all square at the sixteenth.

"I may try again," she said on her arrival here from England, "for the thrill of winning was very great. But I'll never ask Kellsboro Jack to try again after his wonderful record-breaking performance, and I will not ask any other horse of mine to submit to such a heart-breaking ordeal until I am satisfied I have a real champion, one almost bound to win if he starts."

U.S. Amateur Ring Champion Defeated

Boston, April 26.—The championship reign of Homer Branda, San Francisco, only defending titlist in the national A.A.U. boxing championship tournament, ended yesterday evening under the long straight punches fired by Lenky Frank Wilson, Boston, in a blazing 175-pound quarter-finals battle. After slugging toe to toe with his lanky rival, the sun-tanned champion last found himself edged out of the competition on a divided decision, before a crowd of 3,300.

Police Riot Squad Called In Rush To Halt Baseball Row

for-all fight, started by players and taken up by fans, which temporarily halted the game in the ninth inning. Three fans were arrested by officers putting down the near-riot. Lou Gehrig hit his fourth homer, Lazzeri hit another, and Russell, an Alia field, Washington to five hits.

The bad blood existing between the two clubs since the Bill Dickey-Carl Reynolds incident of 1932 broke out again after Lou Gehrig had singled to centre and Ben Chapman to right. Gehrig to third. Tony Lazzeri forced out Chapman. Cronin to Myer, with Gehrig scoring.

Chapman, who Myer claimed spiked him Monday, slid into second, spikes up, knocking Myer down. The second-sacker kicked at Chapman, who scrambled to his feet. They swung fists toe-to-toe as umpires raced toward them and players poured from the dugouts. Amid the howling of belligerent fans, Myer and Chapman were separated and expelled from the same.

Players milled around the field for five minutes before play was resumed. Then, as Chapman started for the showers, by way of the Washington dugout, Earl Witherill, Senator hurler, passed some remark about the fight. Chapman let fly a right which closed Witherill's eye, and followed his lead with his left.

Again the players swarmed from the dugouts, and this time fans leaped from the stands, intent upon mobbing the Yankee fielder. A police riot squad arrived in time to clear the field before greater damage was done. Van Aita, besides hurling himself at the Yankee, batted 1,000 in his four trips to the plate, drove in one run and scored twice.

Cleveland, April 26.—Catcher Frankie Pytlak, starting his first game of the season for the Indians, picked out the seventh inning to make his first hit—a home run—gave Cleveland a 4-1 victory over St. Louis yesterday.

Pytlak's long drive brought two runners in and broke up a pitching duel between "Bumps" Harey and Clint Brown. R. H. E. St. Louis..... 1 7 8 Cleveland..... 4 8 1 Batteries—Pytlak, Grey and Feprell; Brown and Pytlak.

Boston, April 26.—The Boston Red Sox handed Bob Grove, Athletics, his first defeat of the season yesterday while beating the A's 6 to 4. Grove yielded nine hits and six runs before he retired at the end of the fifth inning.

Cincinnati, April 26.—A long smash into the right field stands from the bat of Jim Bottomley helped the Cincinnati Reds to a 5 to 3 victory over the Chicago Cubs yesterday.

It was the third victory in three starts for Bill Hallahan, southpaw.

English Cricket Season Will Open Week From To-day

LARWOOD MAY BE OUT FOR SEASON

Famous Bowler Given Great Reception on Arrival Home; Opening Matches Set

London, April 26.—England's county championship cricket season will open one week from to-day minus one, and perhaps two, of last summer's most colorful figures.

Kumar Shri Duleepsinhji, Sussex captain and nephew of the famous Ranji who died last month in India, will be a spectator by doctor's orders. He has not recovered completely from the illness which kept him off the victorious Marylebone team which is bringing home the "ashes" from Australia, via New Zealand and Canada.

Harold Larwood, Nottinghamshire's "body line" bowler, hero to Englishmen and anathema to barking Aussies who saw his cannon-ball, leg-side deliveries knock down numerous Antipodean wickets, is home, but may not play this year. The chunky, 28-year-old former coal miner and soccer player is believed to have broken one of two small bones in his left foot.

GREAT WELCOME
When Larwood, who returned ahead of the body of the team, reached his Nottingham home, April 9, at 2 o'clock in the morning, he had to be rescued by a riot squad. Twenty thousand tumultuous fans surrounded the railway station to the dismay of three policemen on duty.

Larwood escaped to his automobile and sat in it for three-quarters of an hour till police reinforcements battered their way through the cheering mob and cleared a path wide enough to let him drive to his home.

New Wednesday's schedule will see only four county clubs in action, but C.L.I. will stage three exhibition games.

The M.C.C. will oppose Surrey at Lord's, and Nottinghamshire will face Worcestershire at Nottingham in the league. Oxford University will play Yorkshire at Oxford; Cambridge University and Sussex will start at Cambridge, and the touring West Indians, who have had luck with the weather, will play a two-day match at Cardiff Bridge against the Club Cricket Conference.

Thursday, June 27—James Island vs. N.S.S.C. Victoria West; New Method vs. U.C.T., Central Park, upper; Navy A vs. West Football, canteen; Y.M.I. vs. Bapco, Central Park, lower.

Thursday, June 28—N.S.S.C. vs. Bapco, North Saanich; James Island vs. U.C.T., Central Park, lower; James Island vs. West Football, canteen; New Method vs. Y.M.I., Central Park, upper.

Those Most in Need of Advice in Marriage
Usually Being the Last Ones to Ask for It, How Can a Bureau of Matrimonial Relief, However Nobly Planned, Help Them to Happiness?

It is announced that the social and welfare workers in one of our large cities have organized a bureau to which those contemplating matrimony and those regretting it can go for counsel and guidance and help. No doubt a heart clinic should fill a long-felt want in a community, for any outsider can diagnose a marriage, either present or prospective, and tell what ails it far better than those afflicted with it. But the trouble is going to be in getting the patients to follow the prescriptions handed out by these specialists in the domestic relations.

Any neighbor could tell you that the reason the A's fight like cat and dog is because they are both high-tempered and bossy and determined to rule the roost, and that neither one will take the trouble to use the slightest tact or diplomacy in dealing with the other. Every acquaintance knows that Mrs. B. has driven her husband away from her and into philandering by her nagging and back-seat chairing. Or that the reason Mrs. C. runs her husband into debt for Paris finery and paints herself up like a house afire is because she is starved for a few compliments and is trying to win from other men the admiration and attention that her husband is too cold and dumb to show her.

Everybody knows that the D's would get along like turtle doves if they would only sidestep each other's peculiarities instead of bumping into them. Everybody knows that Mr. E. would never look at another woman if only his wife would play up to him and tell him how big and handsome and wonderful he is. Everybody knows that if Mr. F. would praise his wife's cooking and thrift he would be the champion cake-maker and penny-pincher of the neighborhood. Instead of poisoning him on soggy bread and watery potatoes and throwing half of his salary in the garbage can. Everybody knows what makes everybody else's marriage sick except their own and they could tell them how to cure it. Just like that.

But the difficulty is that the sufferers apparently don't wish to be healed. They won't take their medicine. Especially if it tastes bad. They are like those people who never admit that they have certain diseases, even when they are dying of them. You never hear a woman confess that she is a virago, or unreasonable, or dull, or lazy. Oh, dear, no! She is always nervous or high-spirited. She doesn't have time to read. Or she is too delicate to do any work.

Nor did you ever hear of a man admitting that he was mean and little and tyrannical and stingy and grouchy and about as pleasant to live with as a sore-headed bear. Far from it. The reason his marriage is a failure is that his wife doesn't understand him.

So it is going to be some job to cure the matrimonial ills of those who deny their own symptoms and who insist upon the bitter dose being administered to the other fellow. Most husbands and wives would like to see a major surgical operation performed upon the characters and disposition of their husbands and wives, but when it comes to amputating a few of their own faults and toiles it is a different matter.

Nor is it going to be any easier task to prevent the young from contracting fatal marriages than it is to restore to health those who are moribund. For the one thing that lovers will not take is advice, no matter how skillfully you sugar-coat the pill.

You can't reduce the temperature in a bad case of infatuation by pouring the cold water of discouragement over it. Nor can the fever yield to a drastic treatment of common sense and reason. You simply have to let Nature take its course and pray Heaven to work some miracle to save the patient.

In vain do you point out to Mary the folly of marrying a youth addicted to drink, or one who is too temperamental to work, or one who has a roving eye for every pretty face and a humble foot for chasing skirts. She knows a hundred women who have to fish husbands out of the gutter. She knows a hundred more who have to support the lazy loafers to whom they are married. And she has a dozen friends who have stood philanderers as long as they could and then divorced them.

But she is perfectly utterly sure that no such catastrophe will befall her if she marries a Grade B man. Her drunkard will reform and never thirst for a highball again. Her ne'er-do-well will turn into a go-getter. Her Don Juan will become a Joseph. And so she blithely steps on the gas and speeds by all of the red-light signals that you erect along her path to the altar.

Same way with men. Doesn't mother talk her tongue off telling John what will happen to him if he marries that wacky little Mary Jones, or that flibbertigibbet Susie Smith whose brains are all in her heels and who is clothes-mad and couldn't boil water without scorching it, or that Sally Scootums whose shiftless family will come and live on him? She does, but does John listen?

Not a bit of it. He goes right along and defies the wisecracks you try to put a crimp in love's young dream by gloomy prophecies about the way it is likely to end if he doesn't pick out the girl they O.K.

And here is the catch in the thing. You never can tell about love and marriage. How they will turn out. Sometimes the strongest and most vigorous-looking cases die suddenly, apparently without cause. Often sickly little affection grows into a great beautiful love. Sometimes the marriages that everybody predicted would be failures are the happiest, and those that we thought would be happy ever after turn into grief.

And perhaps that is the reason why young people never listen to any advice about love.

Exploring Australia

STRANGE ANIMALS

Now we are zooming northwestward. We land near a river, when twilight comes, and set up camp in the midst of a clump of trees.

Four animals of Australia.

After we eat our evening meal, Mr. Brown says to us:

"Let's go for a little walk. Maybe we shall see a duckbill. It is one of the strangest animals in the world."

We stroll along the river bank, our path lit by the full moon. We step softly so that if there is a duckbill on the bank it will not be frightened by our approach.

"Look!" you suddenly exclaim. "See that furry animal with a bill like a duck?"

Mr. Brown and I gaze toward the object you point out, and, sure enough, it is a duckbill!

For magic moments we rest our eyes on this queer living thing. It is of about the same size as a real duck, but instead of feathers it has fur.

A twig cracks, and the duckbill plunges into the water. It is a good swimmer, for Nature has equipped it with webbed feet.

After the animal passes from sight, we return to our camp. Duckbills lay eggs, and if it were not for their fur and the milk which they give their young, we should class them as birds.

After a night rest, we take up our journey once more, and explore Central Australia.

At one time we come upon a band of a dozen kangaroos. Several of them stand six feet tall. Our pilot assures us that some kangaroos are even taller, measuring eight feet in height. Instead of running on "all fours," the kangaroo bounds from place to place; and his leaps would do credit to a broad-jumper.

Emus are among the other residents of plains and open forests of Australia. We observe that they are not quite so tall as ostriches; but they are built very much like the big birds whose principal home is Africa. The emu has three toes on each foot, but the true ostrich has a foot with only two toes.

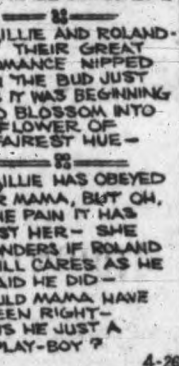

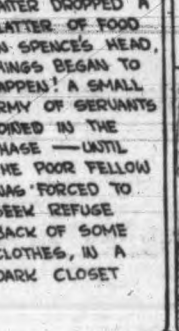

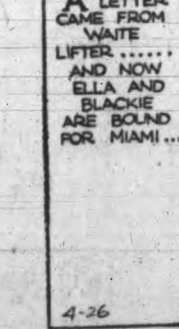

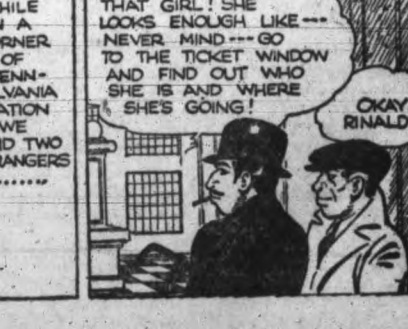

When Mr. Brown catches sight of a dingo, or wild dog, he draws forth a revolver and shoots it down.

"Those wolf-like beasts are a danger to sheep," he explains. "They are one of the pests of Australia."
